

“Us With God”

Matthew 1:18-25

February 25, 2024

VIDEO: Daily Devotional Feb. 24, 2024

INTRO:

Last week God’s Word explained the greatest mystery...

Today... let me ask you:

Who is going to HEAVEN & who is going to HELL?

(How do you know & where does your confidence come from?)

PRAYER

CONTEXT:

- Gospel of Matthew: miracle Messiah mission
- Matthew miraculously messages The Messiah’s mission!
- BE ready! Both the Devil & the divine are in the details!
- Christ’s genealogy theology = faith forest vs. family tree!
- You can learn a lot about someone from their family.
- HE is The I AM!
- Don’t miss the “US” in JesUS!
- Immanuel’s “WITH” explains & defines us!
- 1st came Christ’s genealogy, then His miraculous arrival
- Ch.1 closes with His: Deity, Humanity, Mystery & FAMILY

TEXT:

Matthew 1:18-25... DIVINITY DECLARED!

18Now the birth of Jesus Christ took place in this way. When his mother Mary had been betrothed to Joseph, before they came together she was found to be with child from the Holy Spirit. 19And her husband Joseph, being a just man and unwilling to put her to shame, resolved to divorce her quietly. 20But as he considered these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, "Joseph, son of David, do not fear to take Mary as your wife, for that which is conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit. 21She will bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins." 22All this took place to fulfill what the Lord had spoken by the prophet: 23"Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and they shall call his name Immanuel" (which means, God with us). 24When Joseph woke from sleep, he did as the angel of the Lord commanded him: he took his wife, 25but knew her not until she had given birth to a son. And he called his name Jesus.

BIG IDEA:

The mystery of destiny
is unlocked by biblical family!

- From the beginning... family has explained everything!
- Our timeless Creator is 3 in 1
- His created beings were/are made for relationships
- Sin & corruption came in through broken relationships
- Ever since Genesis 3 reality is defined by family wars
- Children of God vs. children of Satan (1st John, Jn. 8:44)

HOPE happens HERE!

PREVIEW:

1. The TRINITY Family
2. The ADVERSARY Family
3. The CHRISTIANITY Family

TEXT:

I. The TRINITY Family

T/S: Who is God with & who is with God?

- This mystery is too big for our human minds
- The family of God is built on the mystery of the Trinity
- The Trinity family is the key to both the adversary AND the Christianity families

VIDEO: US per Matthew 13 part 1

- Don't be like Acts 19's "sons of Sceva!"
- Who are you?!?! A question we all need to answer.
- Context, Confidence, & Confusion are essential issues.
- Jesus taught this 8X in Matthew 12-13 (see emphasis)!
- Don't miss the dual points of Christ's parables.
- Chiastic arches abound throughout the Bible...
- See the timelessness of God's Word
- Hear & heed the exhortation of The living God
- Only heaven and/or hell await us all
- Knowing these truths require compassionate action.
- PLEASE hear the LOVE in our Lord's warnings...

VIDEO: US per Matthew 13 part 2

- The weeping & gnashing of teeth crowd are REAL...
- Again, who are you? How do you know?
- Are you good soil? Where is your fruit?
- Whose standards?
- Both biblical convict & confidence come from Christ!

T/S: Don't be so stubborn that you push away the only truth in love (Ephesians 4:15) that can save your soul for ALL of eternity! Look and listen to the blueprint of God and His family.

VIDEO: US per Matthew 13 part 3

Who is who? War IS war!
Know who WE are... biblically!

- You cannot trust your feelings & worldly descriptions
- We ALL need to hear & heed God's definitions!

VIDEO: US per Matthew 13 part 3

Satan can't pull up God's wheat... so he plants his own weeds!

- Weirsbe

- Don't think that you cannot be deceived by a modern Judas or Demas... that's the whole point of the lesson!

Without a biblical understanding of The Gospel (with it's needs and challenges, it's wolves, goats, sheep, and true shepherds, you will likely fall into the wrong flock of goats and miss the true family of God's sheep... you'll likely be deceived by Satan's wolves and go astray from God's true sheep-dogs and shepherds.

- JDP

Gospel: Truth-in-Love

II. The ADVERSARY Family

- It's Jesus who calls the eternally lost His "enemies."
- Acting the part & transformed hearts are not equal!
- The war is for your identity, integrity, & intensity!
- The battle/war is real!
- No cross-carrying = no disciple... again, per JESUS!

Have you ever considered... biblically speaking, per Almighty God, maybe you're a weed that is comfortable in the dirt... - JDP

The war is IN the church! - JDP

- The religious fakes claim Romans 8... but won't embrace Romans 6 & 7 first.
- We are living a world that is far worse than Sodom & Gomorrah...
- Here's another tool to help us find our way through...

THERE IS NO BETTER PLACE TO PULL THIS ALL TOGETHER THAN AT THE CROSS OF CHRIST.

Let's zoom out for a moment...

Take a closer look around the cross.

SEE...

- Satan... Judas... Pilot... Herod...
- The Jewish religious leaders...
- The torturous Romans...
- The Roman guards...
- The crowds...
- Barabbas...
- The family of the Devil!

BUT there's more...

- 2 thieves... ONE of which was saved!
- See the biblical (not Catholic) Mary...
- The Apostle John...
- The family of God...

VIDEO: US per Matthew 13 part 4

*THINK & PRAY about the awe-inspiring difference between the 2 families represented all around Christ and His cross... BOTH back then AND today!

III. The CHRISTIANITY Family

Last time we looked closely at the one thief on the cross who was born again without doing ANYTHING but believing, receiving, & repenting... ALL by grace, through faith... not of works so that he/we could never boast...

Today we look at 2 more dramatic witnesses...

The confessional Roman guard
&
the man who carried Christ's cross...

VIDEO: Meet Simon of Cyrene (Skit Guys)

- Are you able to see yourself in the context?
- Where would you be in the drama?
- Who would you most easily associate with?

➤ It's only when you see Christ's cross up close that you can begin to understand like the Roman guard and Simon of Cyrene...

➤ Look closely... LOOK CLOSER...

- Simon is a touring figure in our faith family...
- Simon is a portrait of Christian potential...
- Simon is the father of Alexander & Rufus...
- Mark & Paul tell us about Simon's family...
- Simon was just a regular guy... CHOSEN

Follow Simon's providential journey with Jesus... a journey with generations of Gospel grace being spread across the globe!

CLOSE:

The mystery of destiny
is unlocked by biblical family!

PRAYER

WORSHIP: God Is On The Throne & Walk By Faith (Acts 1:8 BRIDGE Family)

STUDY NOTES:

Christianity.com

Who Was Present at the Cross?

G. Campbell Morgan, Matthew Henry & A.W. Pink

We know there were many witnesses to the crucifixion, but how many? What did they say to Jesus, and what did he say back? These articles explore who was at the cross, and what we can learn from their stories today.

Table of Contents

- Who Were the People Present at the Crucifixion?
- What Was Jesus' Message to John and Mary at the Cross?
- Who Were the Two Criminals at the Crucifixion?

Who Were the People Present at the Crucifixion?

G. Campbell Morgan summarizes the major witnesses at Golgotha, from the friends to the executioners.

Women at the Crucifixion

We take it then for granted that four women are mentioned as being present at the crucifixion of the Lord.

In John we see two pairs, the unnamed women, the mother of the Lord and her sister; and the two women who are named, Mary of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene.

- "Near the cross of Jesus stood his mother, his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene." (John 19:25)

As Luke records, there were many other women, but these stand prominently out, as having been most closely associated with Him.

- "A large number of people followed him, including women who mourned and wailed for him." (Luke 23:27)
- "But all those who knew him, including the women who had followed him from Galilee, stood at a distance, watching these things." (Luke 23:49)

Roman Soldiers, Two Criminals, and the Roman Centurion

All the evangelists speak of the presence of the soldiers, and of the two malefactors crucified one on either side of Jesus.

Matthew, Mark, and Luke draw special attention to the centurion in charge of the carrying out of the crucifixion, and they give some account of how he was impressed in the presence of the Crucified.

- According to Matthew he said, "Surely he was the Son of God" (Matthew 27:54)
- According to Mark, "Surely this Man was the Son of God" (Mark 15:39)
- According to Luke, "Surely this was a righteous Man" (Luke 23:47)

Let me at once say that there is no contradiction between Matthew and Mark on the one hand, and Luke on the other. It is almost certain that the centurion said both of these things. It is certainly conceivable that as this man watched Jesus on the Cross, he gave utterance to more than one sentence, and we believe therefore that while Matthew and Mark chronicle the statement which impressed them, Luke chronicled what appealed to him, and was in perfect harmony with his whole scheme of teaching. The accounts are rather complementary than contradictory.

Chief Priests and Jewish Leaders

The presence of the chief priests is recorded by Matthew, Mark, and John, Luke making no reference to them. Matthew, Mark, and Luke refer to the scribes, elders, or rulers, comprising the Sanhedrin, while John ignores their presence.

- "In the same way the chief priests, the teachers of the law and the elders mocked him." (Matthew 27:41)
- "In the same way the chief priests and the teachers of the law mocked him among themselves. 'He saved others,' they said, 'but he can't save himself!'" (Mark 15: 31)
- "The people stood watching, and the rulers even sneered at him. They said, 'He saved others; let him save himself if he is God's Messiah, the Chosen One.'" (Luke 23:35)
- "The people stood watching, and the rulers even sneered at him. They said, 'He saved others; let him save himself if he is God's Messiah, the Chosen One.'" (John 19:21)

Multitudes and Disciples

Luke, who wanted to show the universality of the work and relation of Jesus, declares the presence of great multitudes of the people.

- "A large number of people followed him, including women who mourned and wailed for him." (Luke 23:27)

John alone tells us that the disciples were also there, and he only, moreover, refers to the fact of his own presence, and this in order that he may record Christ's committal of His mother to his care.

- "When Jesus saw his mother there, and the disciple whom he loved standing nearby, he said to her, 'Woman, here is your son,' and to the disciple, 'Here is your mother.' From that time on, this disciple took her into his home." (John 19:26-27)

Standing back and gazing out upon that mixed multitude, we notice the women, the soldiers, the malefactors, the centurion, the chief priests, the members of the Sanhedrin, the group of His own disciples, and in addition to these, the vast multitudes of people from the whole surrounding country. All sorts and conditions of people are gathered to the Cross, representative crowds, the whole scene being a picture and a prophecy of how, through all the centuries, every sort and condition would be gathered to the uplifted Cross of the Son of man.

Adapted from The Crises of the Christ, Book V, Chapter XXIV, by G. Campbell Morgan. Previously published on Christianity.com on September 13, 2010.

What Was Jesus' Message to John and Mary at the Cross?

"but standing by the cross of Jesus were his mother and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene. When Jesus saw his mother and the disciple whom he loved standing nearby, he said to his mother, "Woman, behold, your son!" then he said to the disciple, "Behold, your mother!" And from that hour the disciple took her to his own home. - John 19:25-27

At the foot of the cross, there were four women who had been followers of Jesus, including his mother Mary (John 19:25). In that moment, Jesus, despite being crucified, noticed John, son of Zebedee, who was known as the disciple he loved and also the author of this Gospel. He said to Mary that John would now be like a son to her, and he told John that Mary would be like his mother (John 19:26-27). Immediately, John took Mary into his home (John 19:27).

Even while suffering on the cross, Jesus made sure to fulfill his duty to care for his widowed mother. He chose John to look after her instead of one of her biological sons because they had not yet believed in him (John 7:5). This event highlights the importance of spiritual relationships over biological and physical ones, as emphasized in passages like Matthew 12:46-50.

Jesus tenderly provides for his mother at His death. It is probable that Joseph, her husband, was long since dead, and that her son Jesus had supported her. Now that He was dying what would become of her? He saw her standing by and knew her cares and griefs, and He saw John standing not far off. So, He established a new relationship between His beloved mother and His beloved disciple. He said to her, "Woman, behold your son, for whom, from now on, you must have a motherly affection," and to John, "Behold you mother, to whom you must pay a son's duty." And so from that hour, that hour never to be forgotten, that disciple took her to his own home.

Notice the care Christ took of His dear mother. He was not so much taken up with a sense of His sufferings as to forget His friends, all whose concerns He bore.

His mother, perhaps, was so taken up with his sufferings that she didn't think of what would become of her, but He did. He had no other way to provide for His mother than by His interest in a friend, which he does here.

This was an honor put upon John, and a testimony both to his prudence and to his fidelity. If He who knows all things had not known that John loved Him, He would not have made him Mary's guardian. It is a great honor to be employed for Christ and to be entrusted with any of His interest in the world.

It was also a great responsibility for John, but he cheerfully accepted it and took her to his own home, not objecting the trouble nor expense, nor his obligations to his own family, nor the ill-will he might contract by it. According to Nicephoras's Ecclesiastical History (book 2, chapter 3), Mary lived with John at Jerusalem eleven years and then died. Others, however, say she went with him to Ephesus.

Why Did Jesus Use "Woman" and Not "Mother"?

Jesus calls Mary woman, not mother, not out of any disrespect to her, but because mother would have been a cutting word to her who was already wounded with grief. He directs her to look upon John as her son: "Behold him as thy son, who stands there by you, and be as a mother to him."

Within the language at that time, it was not disrespectful for Jesus to have referred to Mary as "woman" when he said, "Woman, behold your son" (John 19:26). In the context of the Bible and the culture of that time, addressing someone as "woman" was not necessarily disrespectful. It was a common way of addressing women, even by Jesus himself on other occasions.

In this specific situation, while hanging on the cross, Jesus was entrusting the care of his mother, Mary, to the disciple whom he loved, traditionally identified as John. He was essentially making sure that Mary would be taken care of after his death, as it was a gesture of love and concern for her well-being. The use of "woman" in this context can be seen as a way of emphasizing the importance of this new relationship between Mary and John, rather than as a sign of disrespect. It was a solemn and compassionate moment during a difficult time.

Adapted from Matthew Henry's Commentary on the Whole Bible John 19. Previously published on Christianity.com as "What Did Jesus Mean By 'Woman, Behold Your Son'?" on August 3, 2010.

Who Were the Two Criminals at the Crucifixion?

It was no accident that Jesus was crucified between two thieves. There are no accidents in a world that is governed by God. Much less could there have been any accident on that day, or in connection with that event of all events - a day and an event which lie at the very center of the world's history. No, God was presiding over that scene. From all eternity He had decreed when and where and how and with whom his Son should die. Nothing was left to chance or the impulsiveness of man. All that God had decreed came to pass exactly as He had ordained, and nothing happened save as He had eternally purposed. Whatsoever man did was simply that which God's hand and counsel "determined to be done" (Acts 4:28).

When Pilate gave orders that the Lord Jesus should be crucified between the two criminals, all unknown to himself, he was simply putting into execution the eternal decree of God and fulfilling His prophetic word. Seven hundred years before this Roman officer gave his command, God had declared through Isaiah that His Son should be "numbered with the transgressors" (Isaiah 53:12). How utterly unlikely this appeared, that the Holy One of God should be numbered with the unholy; that the very one whose finger had inscribed on the tables of stone the Law should be assigned a place with the lawless; that the Son of God should be executed with criminals - this seemed utterly inconceivable. Yet, it actually came to pass. Not a single word of God can fall to the ground. "Forever, O Lord, your word is settled in heaven" (Psalm 119:89). Just as God had ordained, and just as He had announced, so it came to pass.

Why did God order it that His beloved Son should be crucified between two criminals? Certainly God had a reason; a good one, a manifold one, whether we can discern it or not. God never acts arbitrarily. He has a good purpose for everything He does, for all His works are ordered by infinite wisdom. In this particular instance a number of answers suggest themselves to our inquiry. Was not our blessed Lord crucified with the two thieves to fully demonstrate the unfathomable depths of shame into which He had descended? At His birth he was surrounded by the beasts of the field, and now, at His death, He is numbered with the refuse of humanity.

Again, was not the Savior numbered with transgressors to show us the position He occupied as our substitute? He had taken the place which was due us, and what was that but the place of shame, the place of transgressors, the place of criminals condemned to death!

Adapted from The Seven Sayings of the Saviour on the Cross, 2. The Word of Salvation, by A.W. Pink. Previously published as "How Did Jesus Become a Curse on the Cross?" on Christianity.com on September 15, 2010.

TRINITY Baptist Church

FEBRUARY 24, 2022

The Crowd Around the Cross

I want us to think about the cross of Jesus. We find the story of Jesus' crucifixion in Matthew 27.

It is interesting to note, as you look at this chapter the many characters. In fact, if you look carefully at this crowd I believe you'll be able to see yourself.

The first person we'll see around the cross today is Judas.

Early in the morning, all the chief priests and the elders of the people made their plans how to have Jesus executed. ²So they bound him, led him away and handed him over to Pilate the governor. ³When Judas, who had betrayed him, saw that Jesus was condemned, he was seized with remorse and returned the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and the elders. ⁴"I have sinned," he said, "for I have betrayed innocent blood."

“What is that to us?” they replied. “That’s your responsibility.” ⁵ So Judas threw the money into the temple and left. Then he went away and hanged himself. ⁶ The chief priests picked up the coins and said, “It is against the law to put this into the treasury, since it is blood money.” ⁷ So they decided to use the money to buy the potter’s field as a burial place for foreigners. ⁸ That is why it has been called the Field of Blood to this day. ⁹ Then what was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet was fulfilled: “They took the thirty pieces of silver, the price set on him by the people of Israel, ¹⁰ and they used them to buy the potter’s field, as the Lord commanded me.”

Matthew 27:1-10 (NIV)

The Closeness of Judas

Judas is the first character we need to look at because of how close he gets! Now take note, this is not close as in intimacy or relational closeness. No, this is a negative thing. As they say: Close only counts in horseshoes and hand-grenades!

Judas teaches us that: Proximity to the things of God does not exempt you from submitting to God. The life of Judas shows us someone who was ‘close’ to Jesus, but never transformed by Jesus! He looked like a disciple, but inwardly he was still living for himself! And yet, he for 3 years, Judas ‘followed’ Jesus! He was one of the ones who carried the baskets full of food, he was there to see Lazarus brought back to life, he was there when Jesus taught the crowds!

And it makes me think about how today, there are many, many people who say they ‘follow Jesus’ but lives demonstrate they really don’t know him! Yes, they may be moral people. Yes, they may even be a part of a church. Yes, they may be a part of some really awesome causes that really help people.

But, it’s possible to be close to Jesus without being transformed by him!

Notice the text says, “ he was seized with remorse.” There were two words in Greek which translate “repentance.” The one used here was not the normal word used in Matt. 3:2 where John the Baptist says, ‘repent, for the kingdom of heaven is near’, that word meant “a change of mind and actions.” Here the word meant “sorrow afterwards” but with the implication of no real change. Please know that there is a major difference between feeling bad about sin and repenting from it!

I don’t care how good you think that you are outwardly, unless you have been born again, your heart is corrupt, and your thoughts are twisted, and you are in need of saving! We must never allow ourselves to think that religiosity, morality, or altruism could ever be a substitute for regeneration! Have you come to the place where you’ve realized your only hope is found in Jesus? Have you repented, and allowed Jesus to transform your life? The fate of Judas is a very graphic part of the biblical account, but we have it in our Bibles to illustrate the seriousness of sin!

Let’s move on to Pilate.

The Callousness of Pilate

Meanwhile Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor asked him, “Are you the king of the Jews?” “You have said so,” Jesus replied.

¹² When he was accused by the chief priests and the elders, he gave no answer. ¹³ Then Pilate asked him, “Don’t you hear the testimony they are bringing against you?” ¹⁴ But Jesus made no reply, not even to a single charge—to the great amazement of the governor. ¹⁵ Now it was the governor’s custom at the festival to release a prisoner chosen by the crowd. ¹⁶ At that time they had a well-known prisoner whose name was Jesus Barabbas. ¹⁷ So when the crowd had gathered, Pilate asked them, “Which one do you want me to release to you: Jesus Barabbas, or Jesus who is called the Messiah?” ¹⁸ For he knew it was out of self-interest that they had handed Jesus over to him. ¹⁹ While Pilate was sitting on the judge’s seat, his wife sent him this message: “Don’t have anything to do with that innocent man, for I have suffered a great deal today in a dream because of him.” ²⁰ But the chief priests and the elders persuaded the crowd to ask for Barabbas and to have Jesus executed. ²¹ “Which of the two do you want me to release to you?” asked the governor. “Barabbas,” they answered. ²² “What shall I do, then, with Jesus who is called the Messiah?" Pilate asked. They all answered, "Crucify him!" ²³ "Why? What crime has he committed?" asked Pilate. But they shouted all the louder, "Crucify him!" ²⁴ When Pilate saw that he was getting nowhere, but that instead an uproar was starting, he took water and washed his hands in front of the crowd. "I am innocent of this man's blood," he said. "It is your responsibility!" ²⁵ All the people answered, "His blood is on us and on our children!" ²⁶ Then he released Barabbas to them. But he had Jesus flogged and handed him over to be crucified.

Matthew 27:11-26 (NIV)

I want you today to see that ultimately what best describes the heart of Pilate is Callous. He was unmoved. Pilate was no fool. He knew the people and their motive (verse 18) and although he found no fault in Jesus (Luke 23:4) and his own wife advised him to having nothing to do with Jesus' death (verse 19), Pilate knew that giving in was the path of least resistance. He was stationed where he was to keep the people in line and so he gave in to their request.

And yet there must have been something within Pilate that knew this was not right because he symbolically washed his hands of the manner. He thought he could remain neutral and not make a decision about Jesus.

But indecision is a decision.

When I was learning to drive I started out like many of you, driving out in the pasture, parallel parking between the pine trees of East Texas. But eventually those lessons led us to driving on the road, and the #1 thing my Dad told me was, 'Indecision will get you killed!' He knew that when it comes to the rules of the road, sometimes there is no great choice to be made but whatever you do, commit to it! I remember pulling onto the highway once and two semi-trucks were topping the hill side by side and moving fast! Well, I probably should not have been in the road at all, it was too late to try to put it in reverse, so I stepped on the gas with everything I had and made it to the shoulder of the other side before getting creamed!

Mind you I was 16 at the time and my brother was 13 so that meant he told the story of what happened first opportunity he had! While my parents weren't thrilled about the situation in general, I had at least put into practice what I had learned about indecision, and it made all the difference!

Indecision towards Jesus is the worst decision of all. It too will get you killed!

Please, don't think that you can be neutral about Jesus. You can't.

Jesus said, "Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters." Matthew 12:30 (NIV)

Pilate even tried to utilize the political customs of the day to avoid dealing with Jesus, but then the crowd chose Barabbas instead ruining his plan.

Don't be like Pilate today, thinking you can remain neutral about Jesus only results in a Callous heart!

Let's look next at the soldiers.

The Carelessness of the Soldiers (v. 27-31)

Then the governor's soldiers took Jesus into the Praetorium and gathered the whole company of soldiers around him. ²⁸ They stripped him and put a scarlet robe on him, ²⁹ and then twisted together a crown of thorns and set it on his head. They put a staff in his right hand. Then they knelt in front of him and mocked him. "Hail, king of the Jews!" they said. ³⁰ They spit on him, and took the staff and struck him on the head again and again. ³¹ After they had mocked him, they took off the robe and put his own clothes on him. Then they led him away to crucify him.

Matthew 27:27-31 (NIV)

The Soldiers are an interesting bunch because on the one hand, they were just doing their jobs, but they also were Careless about Jesus. These guys were too busy to stop and really see what was happening. They were just doing their jobs. They were caught up in public opinion, and for them Jesus was just another person to crucify. As we think about how this relates to us today I want you to see that The biggest cult in America is conformity. We must not be careless about the things of God or the person of Jesus!

“For wide is the gate and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many enter through it.” Matthew 7:13 NIV

Some of you are going to be lost simply because you’re conforming to the crowd! You’re looking around for a consensus, to see what people think, rather than letting God speak to you. This is an easy category in which to hide and blend in. Culturally this doesn’t make a splash, but this is a dangerous place to be as it relates to Jesus.

Let’s look at another group, this time: the spectators!

The Cynicism of the Spectators

Those who passed by hurled insults at him, shaking their heads ⁴⁰ and saying, “You who are going to destroy the temple and build it in three days, save yourself! Come down from the cross, if you are the Son of God!” ⁴¹ In the same way the chief priests, the teachers of the law and the elders mocked him. ⁴² “He saved others,” they said, “but he can’t save himself! He’s the king of Israel! Let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him. ⁴³ He trusts in God. Let God rescue him now if he wants him, for he said, ‘I am the Son of God.’” ⁴⁴ In the same way the rebels who were crucified with him also heaped insults on him.

Matthew 27:39-44 (NIV)

The spectators were cynical to the core. They knew the claims of Jesus but were unwilling to believe! While Jesus was on the cross the misquoted him, mocked him, and minimized him.

I know some of you today identify as a cynic and you may in fact have what appears to be justifiable reasons for being so. But you have a choice... to hold on to hurt, to hold on to bitterness, to hold on to unbelief, or you can turn to Jesus and believe.

You know I don't think we start out as cynics. I think it's something that happens to us over time. Raising three girls I get to see how their understanding of the world grows with each passing day, and part of the reality of the world is teaching your children that not everyone can be trusted, and friends sometimes hurt you, and life disappoints you. But I think there is a reason we are told to have faith like a child. It's because a child is not dominated by cynicism! They believe!

Now look at the scripture: Notice the very thing they are saying of Jesus, "if he really is the Son of God. . .", is the affirmation given to Jesus as recorded in Matthew chapter 4. Right before the temptations of Jesus we see him being baptized and a voice from heaven declaring: "This IS MY SON!"

When we read the whole book, we are confronted with the reality that it is precisely because Jesus IS THE SON of God, that he must stay on the cross. For it was the cross that made possible salvation!

Just because it doesn't make sense to us, doesn't mean God isn't working! The more we grow in our knowledge of Him and the knowledge of His Word, the more we'll be able to understand about His plan and purpose!

I get that cynicism is tempting, but let's fight against that today.

The Commitment of Joseph

As evening approached, there came a rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph, who had himself become a disciple of Jesus.⁵⁸ Going to Pilate, he asked for Jesus' body, and Pilate ordered that it be given to him. ⁵⁹Joseph took the body, wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, ⁶⁰and placed it in his own new tomb that he had cut out of the rock. He rolled a big stone in front of the entrance to the tomb and went away. ⁶¹Mary Magdalene and the other Mary were sitting there opposite the tomb.

Matthew 27:57-61

Here's what we know about this rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph.

Several passages describe this man.

1. From verse 57 of this passage we know he was rich and he was a disciple of Jesus (Matt. 27:57)
2. From Mark 15 we learn that he was a highly honored member of the Sanhedrin (Mark 15:43).
3. Luke 23:50 tells us he was a good and upright man (Luke 23:50)
4. And in John 19 we see he was a secret disciple of Jesus for fear of the Jews (John 19:38)

Now before some of you say, 'secret disciple? That's what I want to be! A spy for Jesus!

The thing that makes Joseph committed and the thing that makes him worth emulating is the fact that he didn't stay a secret disciple!

This was a brave act, to go to Pilate, request the body, provide the tomb, all of it, was a big deal on the part of Joseph. He was publicly identifying himself with a man convicted of treason. He was willing to be ceremonially unclean for the Passover. For a Jew this would be a really big deal. But we see him setting aside everything in order to attend to Jesus. This would surely ostracize him from the Sanhedrin, the group he had been a part of.

He was not a secret disciple for long.

There comes a point in all of our lives where we have to decide if we're willing to lay it all on the line in order to commit ourselves to Jesus!

We've looked at the crowd around the cross because that crowd is still here today! There are people who like Judas, are just playing church. You look like a disciple but in your heart, you know you've never submitted to Jesus as Lord.

Aren't you tired of playing church?

Here's what I know from my time in ministry: if you, like Judas, are trying to earn favor from God by proximity, without submitting to God, then you're going to end up bitter or burned. Because that is unsustainable.

Take a deep breath.

If that's you today, then why don't surrender? Instead of being 'close' you can be intimate. You can know the God of the universe! That's the invitation on the table! To know God and be known by Him! What about those in the room who, like Pilate, are callous?

That can only continue so far before the Lord gives you over to the natural inclination of your heart! Don't wait! You must respond while there is still time!

Isaiah 55:6 says, "Seek the Lord while he may be found; call to him while he is near." (NIV)

Here's the deal: God can warm a cold and callous heart! He has done it before, and he continues to do it!

But the only that happens is when you stand up and stop trying to be neutral about Jesus! You have to come to him and submit totally!

There are also people here today like the soldiers, who honestly just don't want to think about it. Those who think, 'I just don't have time!'

I understand what it's like to be busy. I have 3 little kids. And I know it only gets busier as life progresses and the kids grow into teenagers. But there are days, when it's hard to imagine being busier! All that to say, I get why it's tempting to think you don't have time to deal with matters of faith but now is the time to step out of this cultural current and wake up to the reality that Jesus can not – must not – be ignored!

One of the attacks of the enemy is to lull us into sleep so that we don't ever deal with what's most important! Let's wake up! Let's deal with important matters. Let's not be careless towards Jesus!

For those in the room today who are cynical, I want you to know being intellectual is not an excuse for being cynical.

I'm here to tell you that the Christian faith is robust intellectually to say the least and the things of God are deeper than all of us. That's both exciting and at times a little frustrating. You don't have to check your brain at the door, but you do have to be willing to step out in faith!

If you think you're too cynical to come to God, then tell him that! Have an honest conversation with God, we call that prayer! You're not going to scare him off, I promise you.

Maybe it's your difficult circumstances that have caused you to turn into a cynic. Listen, the Bible is not silent on trials. The Bible is incredibly honest about the reality of difficulties. I don't know the details of your circumstances that have led you to this place. I'm sorry you've gone through that but know this: Your past circumstances do not have to define your future. Hurt can be turned into triumph through the cross but you must be willing to believe!

And there are some here today who, like Joseph, need to step into the light and become that committed follower! No more secret disciples!

It's time for you to take a step of obedience. It's time for you to follow through with Baptism, it's time for you to join this church, it's time for you to share your faith with your family, it's time for you to trust God with your finances and start giving generously, it's time for you to be unashamed to follow Jesus!

Wherever you find yourself today, know this, because of what Jesus accomplished on the cross you can have new life! And we'd love to help you step into it.

WRITTEN BY ADAM BROCK

Adam serves as Teaching Pastor in the North Venue. His prayer for Trinity is that we would always be a place that God uses to rescue people and transform lives.

BibleCourses.com

People at the Cross Matthew 27; Mark 15; Luke 23; John 19 Study the Bible reverently and honestly. Try to put the pieces together and see the whole picture that it gives of each divine episode. Be diligent. Clear your heart of all prejudice! Let God tell you what to believe. Do not try to make the Bible say what it has not said. Our judgment of biblical characters is more a judgment of ourselves. We see ourselves in each one of them. We will find that great teachings come from people at the cross. Equally, great teachings come from people who were not at the cross. Keep your eyes wide open. Unanswered questions are not as dangerous as answers to questions that God does not ask. Some Who Were Absent Judas. Judas was not at the cross. His story is the worst of all human stories! God does not think or act like man. No one demonstrates this more than Judas. “But standing by the cross of Jesus were His mother, and His mother’s sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene” (John 19:25b). 52 THE AGONY & GLORY OF THE CROSS His name sends shudders up and down our spines. Some suggest that God rejected Judas and that is why he betrayed Jesus. This denigrates God. God does not misuse or abuse people. Recent interpretations of this story assign to Judas a lofty cause! “He did what he did because he had a great cause in mind,” they say. This cannot be! Jesus chose Judas, Judas chose Jesus, and then Judas chose to betray Jesus. Jesus allowed Judas to approach Him and even kiss Him (Luke 22:47, 48). Through all of the arrest, Jesus was saying in several different ways, “Don’t do this—run, Judas, run.” The only conclusion we can draw from this is that Judas was a successful hypocrite. The other eleven apostles would have stopped him if they had understood what he was about to do. They did not know his heart by his outward appearance. He had no horns or pitchfork. Jesus knew that Judas had allowed the devil to enter his heart, and He called him the “son of perdition” (John 17:12). John 12:4–6 says that Judas, the trusted treasurer, was a crook and had stolen from the apostles’ money bag. Satan “entered” Judas (Luke 22:3; John 13:27). A man who is made for God, if the man allows it, can be used by Satan. Jesus told Judas as he moved toward his terrible deed to “act quickly” (John 13:26–30). As a disciple, he was disloyal to his teacher. He betrayed Jesus for only a few dollars. Few men were as blessed as Judas. He was with Jesus for three years. He had special privileges, yet he failed to benefit from them. He could not learn; he could not admit error; he could not repent. To be blunt, Judas could not accept Jesus' grace. Judas had regret from pride, not repentance through grace. 53

PEOPLE AT THE CROSS No man was ever warned as Judas was. Months before the betrayal, Jesus said, "Did I Myself not choose you, the twelve, and yet one of you is a devil?" (John 6:70). Judas may have thought that he could be forgiven, but that there was no way he could be restored as an apostle. "My brethren could never forgive me and accept me after this," he may have said to himself. Judas feared life more than death. He committed suicide—a permanent solution to a temporary problem. If Jesus could not save all those close to Him, neither can we! The other apostles. Eleven of the twelve apostles are not seen at the cross. Judas had killed himself, and ten did not show up. Only John went the entire distance . . . and yet we have no record of him saying anything at the cross. Jesus deserved better! Would we have done better? Even though they did not show up at the cross, Jesus still forgave and used the apostles. This gives us hope! The apostles simply fled (Matthew 26:56; Mark 14:50; see Zechariah 13:7). Faith believes that God knows what He is doing! Was the cross too much for the apostles? Did the pain and agony overcome them? The Bible does not stress the suffering that Jesus bore. It emphasizes the value of the blood, the death for our salvation, and the resurrection. Mary, Martha, and Lazarus. These three are not specifically mentioned as being at the cross, at the tomb, or in the upper room (see, for example, Matthew 27:55, 56, 61; Mark 15:40, 47; Luke 23:49, 55; 24:10; John 19:25; Acts 1:13, 14). They are not listed in Acts or in the Epistles.¹ 1 The Epistles are the twenty-one books in the New Testament which were originally written as letters to Christians. They contain valuable teaching on how to live the Christian life. 54

THE AGONY & GLORY OF THE CROSS These were the people with whom Jesus spent His final days. He loved them (John 11:5). Many times, you have the least influence over those you love and those to whom you devote the most effort. Had these three already been hurt too much (John 11:1–44)? It has been noted that the resurrection of Lazarus precipitated the crucifixion of Jesus. Did they think their lives would be in danger if they stood at the foot of the cross? Was it too risky for them to stay with Jesus? Others. Were the physical brothers of Jesus there? They were in the upper room in Acts 1, but they were not at their mother's side at the cross. John stood there, but they didn't (John 19:25–27). Was Barabbas there? We would call him a terrorist (Mark 15:7; Luke 23:18, 19). Pilate was shocked that the Jews chose to release Barabbas rather than Jesus (Matthew 27:15–23; Mark 15:6–14; Luke 23:17–23). What do you think Barabbas should have done? What about the many people Jesus had healed? Were they there? Were they too embarrassed or too ashamed to be present? Some Who Were Present Simon of Cyrene. When the humanity of Jesus failed, Simon was there. Jesus could carry His cross no farther, so the procession to Golgotha was interrupted (Matthew 27:32; Mark 15:21; Luke 23:26). We usually try to avoid interruptions. Some can be painful. We often think, "After this interruption, we can get back to life." No, no, no! Life is nothing but interruptions. The Gospels tell us about many interruptions in the life of Christ. On this occasion, Simon's life was interrupted too. 55 PEOPLE AT THE CROSS Simon was told to carry Jesus' cross. Here is God's providence! This man had traveled hundreds of miles on the religious pilgrimage of a lifetime. Suddenly, he was commandeered to carry a prisoner's cross. Mark inserted an interesting parenthetical note. Simon, he said, was the father of Alexander and Rufus (Mark 15:21). He may have been the father of the Rufus whom Paul mentioned in Romans 16:13, but we cannot be sure. Simon had no idea he would still be known today after two thousand years.

Whatever his thoughts and motives were, his name will forever be in the Bible and in history. We owe Simon a debt of thanks for carrying the cross when Jesus could barely stand. The part of the cross Simon carried was the crossbeam (crossbar).

Thank you, Simon. God always blesses those who assist His Son. The women. Sympathetic, heartbroken women (Luke 23:27–31) wept for Jesus as He made His way to Golgotha. Jesus gave a frightening revelation to them. They were soon to cry for themselves. Jerusalem crucified Jesus, but God would allow Jerusalem to be destroyed by Roman conquerors (A.D. 67–70). The women were there. They did not run. They cared. They looked on with deep feelings and emotion. Later, women helped with Jesus' burial and watched His tomb (Matthew 27:55–61; Mark 15:40–47; Luke 23:49–56). May God bless good women who love Jesus! Mary, the mother of Jesus, was standing sorrowfully by the cross. We are not surprised that she was there. Of all people, who will be with you, no matter what? Your mother! Friends like Peter deny and scatter, but good mothers will always be there! Jesus could not abort His cross; Mary could not abandon her son. She did not fully 56 THE AGONY & GLORY OF THE CROSS understand what He was doing, but she was at the foot of the cross. Every Jewish girl prayed to be the mother of the Messiah. Mary must have been thrilled that God had chosen her to bear and rear His Son (Luke 1:26–38). She also must have been intimidated by the challenge. This was God's only begotten Son! What was it like to rear Him? Mary paid a tremendous price to be Jesus' mother. Simeon, the prophet, had said, "A sword will pierce even your own soul" (Luke 2:35). Only a mother can begin to imagine how Mary felt. Mary lovingly paid the price to rear Jesus. Discipleship will cost us as well. We, too, must be willing to pay the price. Can we remotely grasp what it was like to live in the house with Jesus? It is easier to grasp His deity than His humanity. Humanly speaking, we might think that Jesus would have been an "A" student, a star athlete, the young man voted "most likely to succeed." Mary must have wondered, "What kind of person will this child turn out to be?" (see Luke 1:66). What an experience she must have had in rearing Him! What is the lesson here? In spiritual matters, the physical family does not count. God is not partial (Acts 10:34). There was no fanfare for the family of Jesus. Mary, Jesus' brothers, and His sisters had to obey the gospel as others did! They had to become followers of the Christ as all do, and they did. They were present in the prayer session before the first gospel sermon was preached (Acts 1:13, 14). Joseph, the adopted father, was faithful in what he was asked to do. Mary was faithful to her Son and, later, to His church. Mary, in hearts today, is either banished or deified. Both views are wrong. She did not receive a divinely 57 PEOPLE AT THE CROSS privileged position, but she was greatly blessed (see Luke 11:27, 28): Her Son became her Savior! (See Acts 1:14.) After the Book of Acts, Mary drops out of the Scriptures. Other women who loved Jesus were at the cross. Mary Magdalene was there. Jesus, after His resurrection, appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom He had cast out seven demons (Mark 16:9; Luke 8:2). There was a third Mary, the mother of James and Joses (Mark 15:40). Also, Salome, the mother of James and John, was there, as was Joanna (Luke 24:10). The women from Galilee (Matthew 27:55; Mark 15:40, 41; Luke 23:49, 55) were there and stayed near the cross. Women were the last ones at the cross and the first ones at the tomb. Praise God for good women! The thief on the cross. Read Luke 23:39–43. The thief fascinates us. Nothing exposes how we think like this thief. Are we willing to think and be intellectually honest? The thief was saved. Jesus died with sinners for sinners. While on earth, He had the power to forgive sin (Matthew 9:4–6; Mark 2:8–11; Luke 5:22–24). He was dying, but He was not dead—and He gave salvation to this man. Some cry, "The thief was too bad, too fallen, too late, and too far gone." Let us not tell God how to dispense His grace! Let us not tell Jesus whom He can save! Why try to keep any sinner lost? Just think: The greatest day in this thief's life was the day of his crucifixion! "But he did nothing," you say. Oh, but he did! He claimed the moment. He did what he could. He confessed Jesus as Lord. He rebuked the impenitent thief. He was the only person who defended Christ on the cross. "He was saved without baptism," you say. Maybe and maybe not! The circumstances suggest that the thief could 58 THE AGONY & GLORY OF THE CROSS have been baptized. "All Judea" obeyed John the Baptist's baptism (Matthew 3:4–6; Mark 1:4, 5). Religious folk rejected both John and his baptism (Luke 7:29, 30). Publicans and harlots accepted John's baptism. Jesus and His apostles, later, were baptizing more people than John was (John 4:1, 2). Do not gamble your soul upon a thief who may not have been baptized. Never draw an eternal conclusion from an assumption that cannot be settled by revelation. The thief died under the law of Moses, but we live under the law of Christ (Galatians 6:2). When the thief died, Jesus had not been raised from the dead; He had not given His Great Commission (Matthew 28:18–20; Mark 16:15, 16). At this time, the Holy Spirit had not come; people had not been commanded to be baptized to become Christians. The church had not been established. (That happened on the Day of Pentecost; see Acts 2.) No one can be saved today as the thief was! Under severe humiliation and excruciating pain, the thief did his best thinking. He rebuked the other thief for blasphemy. He confessed their guilt. He defended Jesus. He used “kingdom language.” To some degree, he glimpsed the resurrection. Both the thief and Jesus were dying. Only a great miracle or a resurrection could offer any future hope to him. He did not try to manipulate Jesus as the other thief did. In his helplessness, he threw himself down before “the mercy of the court.” This in no way authorizes “deathbed salvation.” The thief confessed his faith in Jesus, and he who deserved hell got heaven. The cross shouted to the thief as it shouts to us: “Life is not futile . . . failure is not fatal . . . death is not final!” The crowds. Gawkers walked by, watching and ridiculing those being crucified (Matthew 26:65–68; 27:47–49; 59 PEOPLE AT THE CROSS Mark 14:65; 15:29–36). Crosses brought out the inhumanity in man. To spectators, this was a sport—an ugly, bloody game. Experiments were encouraged: “Come down . . .”; “Stay put . . .”; “Give Him some cheap vinegar . . .”; “Maybe Elijah will come!” What a show! Today, the world is filled with protesters. Where were the protesters when they were needed? “His blood shall be on us and on our children!” the crowd had cried (Matthew 27:25). What a terrible price to pay for the conviction that they got! The enemies. With pride they said, “We took care of that!” However, Sunday came. They had set their own trap. After the resurrection, Christianity stormed throughout the world. Biblical Judaism ended. Jerusalem was sacked in A.D. 70. What is the point? Simply this: No one can fight against God and win. Roman soldiers. The soldiers dressed Jesus as royalty and then had a mocking party (Matthew 20:17–19; 27:27–31; Mark 10:32–34; 15:16–20; Luke 18:31–34; 23:11; John 19:1–5). Jesus was beaten severely. The soldiers gambled for His clothes (Matthew 27:35; Mark 15:24; John 19:23, 24). This added insult to injury. However, one Roman centurion watched intently. He saw that Jesus was different. He concluded, as we all must, “Truly this was the Son of God!” (Matthew 27:54; see Mark 15:39; Luke 23:47). Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus. Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus asked boldly for Christ’s body (Matthew 27:57–61; Mark 15:42–47; Luke 23:50–56; John 19:38–42). We do appreciate them, for they buried Jesus. Too many people think the way these two men did. Too many only want to serve God in an advisory capacity. Two men who could have done so much did so little! They only claimed the dead body of a man they had secretly believed in when He was alive. Jesus asks us for 60 THE AGONY & GLORY OF THE CROSS our lives; sometimes we are only willing to perfume His body! We are not told what became of Joseph and Nicodemus. Their action did take nerve, but it takes true courage to confess Jesus, to make Jesus who He is—Lord. Some will do more for a lost cause than for a living hope. It is easier to bury the dead than to obey the living Lord. The cross . . . there is no other way!

GRACE Fellowship Church

Who were on Golgotha during the crucifixion of Jesus?

March 19th, 2020

Today's question has to do with those who were on Golgotha during the crucifixion of Jesus. Who exactly was there? Let's run down the facts to answer this question.

There were a great many people that attended the crucifixion of our Lord. In the Gospel of John we see the mother of our Lord (Mary) and her sister, Mary of Clopas, Mary Magdalene (John 19:25), and Mary the mother of James and John (Matthew 27:56). Luke records many other women there "looking on from afar" (Matthew 27:55). Roman soldiers are also stated by Matthew (27:54), Mark (15:39), and Luke (23:47). All four gospels also mention the two criminals crucified on either side of Jesus (Matthew 27:44; Mark 15:27; Luke 23:32; John 19:18). Of course this crowd included the chief priests, scribes, and elders who comprised the Sanhedrin (Matthew 27:41-43; Mark 15:31-32; Luke 23:35; John 19:20).

The list of people at the crucifixion of Jesus we have seen in Scripture is, up to this point, devoid of disciples. I have left this roster spot until last largely because there is only one disciple at the crucifixion of Jesus—the "disciple whom Jesus loved"—the apostle John (John 19:26-27). That's right, of the twelve disciples that Jesus spent the bulk of His time with during His three year ministry, only John is on Golgotha comforting the mother of our Lord during the crucifixion. All the other disciples forsook the Lord and fled (Matthew 26:56) including Peter after denying Jesus three times.

Now that we have a complete roster to work with, let me share with you what all of this means. First, the presence of this group at the crucifixion of Jesus was important for the purpose of witnessing the real death of Jesus on the cross. They could testify of the grim reality that Jesus really died—and therefore attest to the incredible miracle of the resurrection three days later.

Second, their attendance at the crucifixion of Jesus spoke of their devotion to the Lord. They loved Him and their place was with Jesus—even in His death.

Finally, those who witnessed the crucifixion of Jesus saw something extraordinary—they heard and saw Jesus paying for their sin with His death on the cross. Only later would they understand this by the illumination of the Holy Spirit...but still, there was something supernatural about the events of the crucifixion of Jesus and they were there to see and hear it happening!

No doubt this was a difficult event to witness. But sometimes the most difficult things in life can be the most meaningful. No truer words could ever be spoken regarding the crucifixion of Jesus. My friends, I would ask you today to remember the precious price that purchased the forgiveness of your sins and the redemption of your soul. These witnesses could tell you—although it was difficult to experience, it was the best gift ever given to sinners!

A Complete List of Events in the Life of Jesus

AUGUST 12, 2008 BY ADMIN

Below is a numbered listing of all events in the earthly life of Jesus. This is not an exhaustive listing of every text in the Gospels. (Luke's introduction, for example, is not included because it is related to Luke's writing of the Gospel rather than the events of Jesus' life.) Further, the number and order of events is not always absolute. In some cases there is room for interpretation. When there is room for debate, specific rationale for a particular division or order can be found in the notes related to that event. Still, this provides a generally accepted chronology of events and can be very helpful in understanding the flow of Jesus' life and ministry. For a downloadable .xls or .pdf of this and other documents, see Handouts/Downloads.

PREPARATION FOR MINISTRY (Birth, childhood and hidden years)

1. John the Baptist's birth foretold – Luke 1:5-25
2. Jesus' birth foretold – Luke 1:26-38
3. Mary visits cousin Elizabeth – Luke 1:39-56
4. The birth and naming of John the Baptist – Luke 1:57-66
5. Zachariah's song at John's birth – Luke 1:67-80
6. Joseph's dream and obedience – Matthew 1:18-24
7. The birth of Jesus – Matthew 1:25a, Luke 2:1-7
8. Angelic announcement to shepherds – Luke 2:8-20
9. Circumcision and naming of Jesus – Matthew 1:25, Luke 2:21
10. Jesus' presentation in the temple – Luke 2:22-38
11. The Magi visit and honor Jesus as a Child – Matthew 2:1-12
12. Joseph & Mary's flight to Egypt with Jesus – Matthew 2:13-15
13. Herod has Children killed – Matthew 2:16-18

14. Jesus' family returns to Nazareth – Matthew 2:19-23, Luke 2:39-40

15. Jesus in the temple at age 12 – Luke 2:41-52

INTRODUCTION TO MINISTRY (Approximately 6 months)

16. John the Baptist preaches and baptizes – Matthew 3:1-12, Mark 1:1-8, Luke 3:1-18

17. Jesus' baptism – Matthew 3:13-17, Mark 1:9-11, Luke 3:21-23

18. Jesus' temptation – Matthew 4:1-11, Mark 1:12-13, Luke 4:1-13

19. John the Baptist identifies Jesus as the Messiah – John 1:19-34

20. Jesus begins to gather followers – John 1:35-51

21. Jesus turns water to wine in Cana – John 2:1-11

22. Jesus and his followers travel to Capernaum – John 2:12

23. Jesus travels to Jerusalem and cleanses the temple for the first time – John 2:13-25

24. Jesus visits with Nicodemus – John 3:1-21

25. Jesus ministers in Judea with His followers – John 3:22-24

26. John the Baptist testifies to Jesus – John 3:25-36

27. John the Baptist imprisoned by Herod – Matthew 4:12a; 14:3-5, Mark 1:14a; 6:17-20, Luke 3:19-20

28. Jesus travels through Samaria and encounters the woman at the well – Matthew 4:12b, Mark 1:14b, Luke 4:14a, John 4:1-44

GALILEAN MINISTRY (Approximately 12-18 months)

29. Jesus begins first tour of Galilee – Matthew 4:17, Mark 1:14c-15, Luke 4:14b-15, John 4:45

30. Jesus heals the son of an official – John 4:46-54

31. Jesus teaches in the synagogue in Nazareth – Luke 4:16-30

32. Jesus moves to Capernaum – Matthew 4:13-16, Luke 4:31

33. Jesus heals a lame man on the Sabbath in Jerusalem – John 5:1-15

34. Jesus explains his sabbath healing – John 5:16-47

35. Jesus calls Peter, Andrew, James, and John – Matthew 4:18-22, Mark 1:16-20, Luke 5:1-11

36. Healing of a demon-possessed man – Mark 1:21,23-26, Luke 4:33-35

37. The people are amazed at Jesus' teaching – Mark 1:22,27-28 Luke 4:32,36-37

38. Jesus heals Peter's mother-in-law – Matthew 8:14-15, Mark 1:29-31, Luke 4:38-39

39. Healing of crowds in Capernaum – Matthew 8:16-17, Mark 1:32-34, Luke 4:40-41

40. Jesus begins second tour of Galilee – Matthew 4:23-25, Mark 1:35-39, Luke 4:42-44

41. Jesus heals a leper – Matthew 8:1-4, Mark 1:40-45, Luke 5:12-16

42. Jesus heals a man who was paralyzed – Matthew 9:1-8, Mark 2:1-12, Luke 5:17-26

43. Jesus calls Matthew – Matthew 9:9-13, Mark 2:13-17, Luke 5:27-32

44. Teaching on fasting – Matthew 9:14-17, Mark 2:18-22, Luke 5:33-39

45. Jesus criticized for picking grain on the Sabbath – Matthew 12:1-8, Mark 2:23-28, Luke 6:1-5

46. Jesus heals a hand on the Sabbath – Matthew 12:9-14, Mark 3:1-6, Luke 6:6-11

47. Jesus heals at the Sea of Galilee – Matthew 12:15-21, Mark 3:7-12

48. Jesus chooses the Twelve – Matthew 10:2-4, Mark 3:13-19, Luke 6:12-16

49. Jesus preaches the "Sermon on the Mount" – Matthew 5:1-7:29, Luke 6:17-49

50. Jesus heals a Centurion's slave – Matthew 8:5-13, Luke 7:1-10

51. Jesus raises a widow's son – Luke 7:11-17

52. Jesus reassures John the Baptist – Matthew 11:1-19, Luke 7:18-35

53. People of Galilee rebuked for their unbelief – Matthew 11:20-24

54. Jesus invites the weary to follow Him, promises rest – Matthew 11:25-30

55. Jesus anointed by a sinful woman – Luke 7:36-50

56. Jesus tours Galilee again – Luke 8:1-3

57. Jesus heals a blind man – Matthew 12:22-24

58. Jesus responds to Pharisees' charge of blasphemy – Matthew 12:25-37, Mark 3:20-30

59. Jesus rebukes those seeking only a sign – Matthew 12:38-45

60. Jesus' mother & brothers do not understand Him – Matthew 12:46-50, Mark 3:31-35, Luke 8:19-21

61. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Sower – Matthew 13:1-9, Mark 4:1-9, Luke 8:4-8

62. Jesus explains to His disciples why he teaches in parables – Matthew 13:10-17, Mark 4:10-12, Luke 8:10

63. Jesus explains The Parable of the Sower – Matthew 13:18-23, Mark 4:13-20, Luke 8:9-15

64. Jesus uses the metaphor of a Lamp on a Lampstand – Mark 4:21-25, Luke 8:16-18

65. Jesus refers to the Seed of God's Kingdom – Mark 4:26-29

66. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Wheat & the Weeds – Matthew 13:24-30

67. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Mustard Seed – Matthew 13:31-32, Mark 4:30-32, Luke 13:18-19

68. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Yeast – Matthew 13:33, Luke 13:20-21

69. Jesus fulfills Psalm 78:2 – Matthew 13:34-35, Mark 4:33-34

70. Jesus explains The Parable of the Wheat & Weeds – Matthew 13:36-43

71. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Hidden Treasure – Matthew 13:44

72. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Pearl – Matthew 13:45-46

73. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Net – Matthew 13:47-50
74. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Landowner – Matthew 13:51-52
75. Jesus calms the storm – Matthew 8:18,23-27, Mark 4:35-41, Luke 8:22-25
76. Jesus restores the man living among the tombs – Matthew 8:28-34, Mark 5:1-20, Luke 8:26-39
77. Jesus heals the hemorrhaging woman – Matthew 9:20-22, Mark 5:24b-34, Luke 8:42b-48
78. Jesus heals Jairus' daughter – Matthew 9:18-19,23-26, Mark 5:21-24a,35-43, Luke 8:40-42a,49-56
79. Jesus heals two blind men – Matthew 9:27-31
80. Jesus heals a demon-possessed man – Matthew 9:32-34
81. Jesus visits Nazareth, is rejected again – Matthew 13:53-58, Mark 6:1-6a
82. Jesus sends out His disciples to preach, heal – Matthew 10:1,5-42, Mark 6:6b-13, Luke 9:1-6
83. Herod orders the execution of John the Baptist – Matthew 14:6-12, Mark 6:17-29
84. Herod wonders if Jesus is the resurrected John the Baptist – Mark 6:14-16, Luke 9:7-9

SEASON OF WITHDRAWAL FROM GALILEE (Approximately 6 months)

85. Jesus feeds five thousand (Fives Loaves, Two Fish) – Matthew 14:13-21, Mark 6:30-44, Luke 9:10-17, John 6:1-15
86. Jesus walks on water – Matthew 14:22-33, Mark 6:45-52, Luke 6:16-21
87. Jesus' message on the Bread of Life – John 6:22-71
88. Pharisees rebuke Jesus due to unclean hands – Matthew 15:1-20, Mark 7:1-23
89. Jesus heals the Canaanite woman's daughter – Matthew 15:21-28, Mark 7:24-30
90. Jesus heals a deaf man – Mark 7:31-37
91. Jesus heals many on a mountain near Sea of Galilee – Matthew 15:29-31
92. Jesus feeds the four thousand – Matthew 15:32-38, Mark 8:1-10
93. Pharisees, Sadducees ask for a sign – Matthew 15:39-16:4, Mark 8:11-12
94. Jesus warns others of the Pharisees', Sadducees' influence – Matthew 16:5-12, Mark 8:13-21
95. Jesus heals a blind man in Bethsaida – Mark 8:22-26
96. Peter confesses Jesus is the Christ – Matthew 16:13-20, Mark 8:27-30, Luke 9:18-20
97. Jesus foretells of His death & resurrection – Matthew 16:21-28, Mark 8:31-9:1, Luke 9:21-27
98. Jesus' transfiguration before disciples – Matthew 17:1-8, Mark 9:2-8, Luke 9:28-36
99. Jesus talks about Elijah and John the Baptist – Matthew 17:9-13, Mark 9:9-13
100. Jesus casts out a beligerent demon from a boy – Matthew 17:14-21, Mark 9:14-29, Luke 9:37-43a
101. Jesus foretells of His death & resurrection again – Matthew 17:22-23, Mark 9:30-32, Luke 9:43b-45
102. Jesus produces a coin to pay the Temple Tax – Matthew 17:24-27
103. Jesus teaches about service and gives warnings – Matthew 18:1-11, Mark 9:33-50, Luke 9:46-50
104. Jesus teaches about reclamation and ministering in His name – Matthew 18:15-20
105. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Unforgiving Slave – Matthew 18:21-35
106. Jesus refuses to destroy a Samaritan village – Luke 9:51-56
107. Jesus challenges his followers to full commitment – Matthew 8:19-22, Luke 9:57-62

JUDEAN MINISTRY (Approximately 3 months)

108. Jesus hesitates to go to Jerusalem – John 7:1-9
109. Jesus' discussion at the Festival of Tabernacles – John 7:10-52
110. Jesus forgives a woman accused of adultery – John 7:53-8:11
111. Jesus claims to be the Light of the world – John 8:12-59
112. Jesus heals a man blind from birth – John 9:1-41
113. Jesus claims to be the Good Shepherd – John 10:1-21
114. Jesus sends out 70 to preach – Luke 10:1-24
115. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Good Samaritan – Luke 10:25-37
116. Jesus visits Mary & Martha in Bethany – Luke 10:38-42
117. Jesus teaches the disciples how to pray – Matthew 6:9-15, Luke 11:1-13
118. Jesus accused of healing through Beelzebul – Luke 11:14-26
119. Jesus responds to a blessing – Luke 11:27-28
120. The Sign of Jonah – Luke 11:29-36
121. Pharisee & Law Expert criticize Jesus – Luke 11:37-54
122. Jesus warns of the Pharisees' deception – Luke 12:1-12
123. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Rich Fool – Luke 12:13-21
124. Jesus teaches The Parables of the Wildflowers & the Ravens – Luke 12:22-34
125. Jesus foretells His Second Coming – Luke 12:35-48
126. Jesus foretells His crucifixion – Luke 12:49-59
127. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Barren Fig Tree – Luke 13:1-9
128. Jesus heals a woman with a crooked back – Luke 13:10-17
129. Jesus claims to be one with God – John 10:22-42

PEREAN MINISTRY (Approximately 3 months)

130. Jesus teaches about the Narrow Way – Luke 13:22-30

131. Jesus is warned about Herod – Luke 13:31-33
132. Jesus expresses sorrow for Jerusalem – Matthew 23:37-39, Luke 13:34-35
133. Jesus heals a bloated man – Luke 14:1-6
134. Jesus teaches about humility – Luke 14:7-14
135. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Large Banquet – Luke 14:15-24
136. The cost of following Jesus – Luke 14:25-35
137. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Lost Sheep – Matthew 18:12-14, Luke 15:1-7
138. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Lost Coin – Luke 15:8-10
139. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Lost Son – Luke 15:11-32
140. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Dishonest Manager – Luke 16:1-18
141. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Rich Man & Lazarus – Luke 16:19-31
142. Jesus teaches about Faith & Service – Luke 17:1-10
143. Jesus raises Lazarus from the dead – John 11:1-44
144. The Sanhedrin plots against Jesus – John 11:45-54
145. Jesus heals 10 Lepers on His way to Jerusalem – Luke 17:11-19
146. Jesus teaches about the advent of the Kingdom – Luke 17:20-37
147. The Parable on Prayer: The Persistent Widow – Luke 18:1-8
148. The Parable on Prayer: The Proud Pharisee & Tax Collector – Luke 18:9-14
149. Jesus discusses divorce & remarriage – Matthew 19:1-12, Mark 10:1-12, Luke 16:18
150. Jesus welcomes little children – Matthew 19:13-15, Mark 10:13-16, Luke 18:15-17
151. Jesus & the rich, young ruler – Matthew 19:16-30, Mark 10:17-31, Luke 18:18-30
152. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Vineyard Workers – Matthew 20:1-16
153. Jesus again discusses His death & resurrection – Matthew 20:17-19, Mark 10:32-34, Luke 18:31-34
154. James & John ask for prominence in Jesus' Kingdom – Matthew 20:20-28, Mark 10:35-45
155. Jesus heals Blind Bartemaeus – Matthew 20:29-34, Mark 10:46-52, Luke 18:35-43
156. Jesus talks with Zacchaeus – Luke 19:1-10
157. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Minas – Luke 19:11-27
- PASSION WEEK (7 days)
158. The Sanhedrin plots against Jesus & Lazarus – John 11:55-12:1,9-11
159. Mary of Bethany anoints Jesus – Matthew 26:6-13, Mark 14:3-9, John 12:2-8
160. Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem – Matthew 21:1-11, Mark 11:1-11, Luke 19:28-44, John 12:12-19
161. Jesus curses a fig tree – Matthew 21:18-19, Mark 11:12-14
162. Jesus cleanses the temple and ministers there – Matthew 21:12-17, Mark 11:15-19, Luke 19:45-48
163. Greeks ask to see Jesus – John 12:20-22
164. Jesus predicts his death – John 12:23-36
165. Jews continue in their unbelief – John 12:37-50
166. Jesus teaches about the withered fig tree – Matthew 21:20-22, Mark 11:20-26
167. The Sanhedrin questions Jesus' authority – Matthew 21:23-27, Mark 11:27-33, Luke 20:1-8
168. Jesus teaches The Parable of Two Vineyard Workers – Matthew 21:28-32
169. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Vineyard Owner – Matthew 21:33-46, Mark 12:1-12, Luke 20:9-19
170. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Wedding Feast – Matthew 22:1-14
171. Jesus quizzed about paying tax to Caesar – Matthew 22:15-22, Mark 12:13-17, Luke 20:20-26
172. The Sadducees question Jesus about resurrection – Matthew 22:23-33, Mark 12:18-27, Luke 20:27-40
173. Jesus teaches The Greatest Commandment – Matthew 22:34-40, Mark 12:28-34
174. Jesus discusses the deity of the Davidic Messiah – Matthew 22:41-46, Mark 12:35-37, Luke 20:41-44
175. Jesus rebukes the Scribes & Pharisees – Matthew 23:1-36, Mark 12:38-40, Luke 20:45-47
176. Jesus teaches about the widow's sacrificial giving – Mark 12:41-44, Luke 21:1-4
177. Jesus' Great Prophetic Discourse – Matthew 24:1-51, Mark 13:1-37, Luke 21:5-38
178. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Ten Virgins – Matthew 25:1-13
179. Jesus teaches The Parable of the Talents – Matthew 25:14-30
180. Jesus uses the analogy of sheep & goats – Matthew 25:31-46
181. The Sanhedrin continues to plot against Jesus – Matthew 26:1-5, Mark 14:1-2, Luke 22:1-2
182. Judas plans to betray Jesus – Matthew 26:14-16, Mark 14:10-11, Luke 22:3-6
183. Preparations made for the Passover meal – Matthew 26:17-19, Mark 14:12-16, Luke 22:7-13
184. Jesus washes the disciples' feet – John 13:1-20
185. Jesus identifies Judas as the betrayer – Matthew 26:20-25, Mark 14:17-21, Luke 22:21-23, John 13:21-30
186. Jesus gives a new commandment – John 13:31-35
187. Jesus foretells His disciples' denial of Him – Matthew 26:31-35, Mark 14:27-31, Luke 22:31-38, John 13:36-38
188. Jesus teaches about true greatness – Luke 22:24-30
189. Jesus institutes the Meal of Remembrance – Matthew 26:26-30, Mark 14:22-25, Luke 22:14-20
190. Jesus' farewell to His disciples – John 14:1-16:33
191. Jesus intercedes for His disciples – John 17:1-26

192. Jesus' agony in the Garden of Gethsemane – Matthew 26:36-46, Mark 14:26,32-42, Luke 22:39-46
193. Jesus betrayed, arrested – Matthew 26:47-56, Mark 14:43-52, Luke 22:47-53, John 18:1-12
194. Jesus' hearing before Annas – John 18:12-14,19-23
195. Jesus appears before Caiaphas – Matthew 26:57,59-68, Mark 14:53-65, Luke 22:54,63-65, John 18:24
196. Peter denies knowing Jesus – Matthew 26:58,69-75, Mark 14:54,66-72, Luke 22:54-62, John 18:15-18,25-27
197. Sanhedrin condemns Jesus – Matthew 27:1-2, Mark 15:1a, Luke 22:66-71
198. Judas Iscariot commits suicide – Matthew 27:3-10
199. Jesus' first hearing before Pilate – Matthew 27:2,11-14, Mark 15:1b-5, Luke 23:1-5, John 18:28-38
200. Pilate sends Jesus to Herod Antipas – Luke 23:6-10
201. Herod returns Jesus to Pilate – Luke 23:11-12
202. Jesus is condemned to death in place of Barrabas – Matthew 27:15-26, Mark 15:6-15, Luke 23:13-25, John 18:39-19:16
203. Soldiers mock Jesus – Matthew 27:27-31, Mark 15:16-20
204. Simon carries Jesus' cross – Matthew 27:32, Mark 15:21, Luke 23:26
205. Jesus speaks to "Daughters of Jerusalem" – Luke 23:27-31
206. Jesus is crucified – Matthew 27:33-37, Mark 15:22-26, Luke 23:33-34, John 19:17-24
207. Women and followers at the cross, including Mary – Matthew 27:55-56, Mark 15:40-41, Luke 23:49, John 19:25-27
208. Crowd mocks Jesus – Matthew 27:39-43, Mark 15:29-32, Luke 23:35-38
209. Two criminals crucified with Jesus – Matthew 27:38,44, Mark 15:27-28, Luke 23:32,39-43
210. Supernatural and final events surrounding Jesus' death – Matthew 27:45-54, Mark 15:33-39, Luke 23:44-48, John 19:28-30
211. Soldiers pierce Jesus' side – John 19:31-37
212. Jesus buried in tomb of Joseph of Arimathea – Matthew 27:57-60, Mark 15:42-46, Luke 23:50-54, John 19:38-42
213. Women mourn at Jesus' tomb – Matthew 27:61, Mark 15:47, Luke 23:55-56
- RESURRECTION AND APPEARANCES (40 days)
214. Jesus is resurrected – Matthew 28:2-4
215. Women visit the tomb to anoint Jesus' body – Matthew 28:1, Mark 16:1-4, Luke 24:1-2
216. Women discover the empty tomb – Matthew 28:5-7, Mark 16:5-8, Luke 24:3-8, John 20:1-2
217. Peter & John hurry to the tomb – Luke 24:9-12, John 20:3-10
218. Jesus appears to Mary Magdalene – Mark 16:9-11, John 20:11-18
219. Jesus sends the women to tell the disciples – Matthew 28:8-10
220. Sanhedrin bribes soldiers – Matthew 28:11-15
221. Jesus appears to two on the road to Emmaus – Luke 24:13-35
222. Other appearances by Jesus – Mark 16:12-13
223. Jesus appears to His disciples (Thomas absent) – Luke 24:36-49, John 20:19-25
224. Jesus appears to Thomas & other disciples – John 20:26-29
225. A great catch at the Sea of Galilee – John 21:1-14
226. Jesus reinstates Peter – John 21:15-19
227. Jesus & Peter discuss Apostle John's future – John 21:20-24
228. Jesus commissions disciples to continue His work – Matthew 28:16-20, Mark 16:14-18, Acts 1:4-8
229. Jesus ascends to the Father – Mark 16:19-20, Luke 24:50-53, Acts 1:9

The Expositor's Commentary: D.A. Carson

The Birth of Jesus (1:18–25)

Two matters call for brief remarks: the historicity of the Virgin Birth (more properly, virginal conception), and the theological emphases surrounding this theme in Matthew 1–2 and its relation to the NT.

First, the historicity of the Virgin Birth is questioned for many reasons.

1. The accounts in Matthew and Luke are apparently independent and highly divergent. This argues for creative forces in the church making up all or parts of the stories in order to explain the person of Jesus. But the stories have long been shown to be compatible (Machen), even mutually complementary. Moreover literary independence of Matthew and Luke at this point does not demand the conclusion that the two evangelists were ignorant of the other's content. Yet if they were, their differences suggest to some the strength of mutual compatibility without collusion. Matthew focuses largely on Joseph, Luke on Mary. R.E. Brown (Birth of Messiah, p. 35) does not accept this because he finds it inconceivable that Joseph could have told his story without mentioning the Annunciation or that Mary could have passed on her story without mentioning the flight to Egypt. True enough, though it does not follow that the evangelists were bound to include all they knew. It is hard to imagine how the Annunciation would have fit in very well with Matthew's themes. Moreover we have already observed that Matthew was prepared to omit things he knew in order to present his chosen themes coherently and concisely.

2. Some simply discount the supernatural. Goulder (p. 33) says Matthew made the stories up; Schweizer (Matthew) contrasts the ancient world in which virgin birth was (allegedly) an accepted notion with modern scientific limitations on what is possible. But the antithesis is greatly exaggerated: thoroughgoing rationalists were not uncommon in the first century (e.g., Lucretius); and millions of modern Christians, scientifically aware, find little difficulty in believing in the Virgin Birth or in a God who is capable of intervening miraculously in what is, after all, his own creation. More important, Matthew's point in these chapters is surely that the Virgin Birth and attendant circumstances were most extraordinary. Only here does he mention Magi; and dreams and visions as a means of guidance are by no means common in the NT (though even here one wonders whether Western Christianity could learn something from Third-World Christianity).

Certainly Matthew's account is infinitely more sober than the wildly speculative stories preserved in the apocryphal gospels (e.g., Protevangelium of James 12:3–20:4; cf. Hennecke, 1:381–85). R.E. Brown (Birth of Messiah) accepts the historicity of the Virgin Birth but discounts the historicity of the visit of the Magi and related events. But if he can swallow the Virgin Birth, it is difficult to see why he strains out the Magi. (See the useful book of Manuel Miguens, The Virgin Birth: An Evaluation of Scriptural Evidence [Westminster, Md.: Christian Classics, 1975].)

3. Many point to artificialities in the narrative: e.g., the structure of the genealogy or the delay in mentioning Bethlehem as the place of birth (Hill, Matthew). We have noted, however, that though Matthew's arrangement of the genealogy gives us more than a mere table of names and dates, it does not tell us less. More than any of the synoptists, Matthew delights in topical arrangements.

But that does not make his accounts less than historical.

We are not shut up to the extreme choice historical chronicles or theological invention!

Matthew does not mention Bethlehem in 1:18–25 because it does not suit any of his themes.

In chapter 2, however, as Tatum has shown (W.B. Tatum, Jr., “The Matthean Infancy Narratives: Their Form, Structure, and Relation to the Theology of the First Evangelist” [Ph.D. dissertation, Duke University, 1967]), one of the themes unifying Matthew’s narrative is Jesus’ “geographical origins”; and therefore Bethlehem is introduced.

4. It has become increasingly common to identify the literary genre in Matthew 1–2 as “midrash” or “midrashic haggadah” and to conclude that these stories are not intended to be taken literally (e.g., with widely differing perspectives, Gundry, Matthew; Goulder; Davies, Setting, pp. 66–67). There is nothing fundamentally objectionable in the suggestion that some stories in the Bible are not meant to be taken as fact; parables are such stories. The problem is the slipperiness of the categories (cf. Introduction: section 12. b; and cf. further on 2:16–18). If the genre has unambiguous formal characteristics, there should be little problem in recognizing them. But this is far from being so; the frequently cited parallels boast as many formal differences (compared with Matt 1–2) as similarities. To cite one obvious example: Jewish Midrashim (in the technical, fourth-century sense) present stories as illustrative material by way of comment on a running OT text. By contrast Matthew 1–2 offers no running OT text: the continuity of the text depends on the story-line; and the OT quotations, taken from a variety of OT books, could be removed without affecting that continuity (cf. esp. M.J. Down, “The Matthean Birth Narratives,” ExpT 90 [1978–79]: 51–52; and France, Jesus; see on 2:16–18).

R.E. Brown (Birth of Messiah, pp. 557–63) argues convincingly that Matthew 1–2 is not midrash. Yet he thinks the sort of person who could invent stories to explain OT texts (midrash) could also invent stories to explain Jesus. Matthew 1–2, though not itself midrash, is at least midrashic. That may be so. Unfortunately, not only does the statement fall short of proof, but the appeal to a known and recognizable literary genre is thus lost. So we have no objective basis for arguing that Matthew’s first readers would readily detect his midrashic methods. Of course, if “midrashic” means that Matthew intends to present a panorama of OT allusions and themes these chapters are certainly midrashic: in that sense the studies of Goulder, Gundry, Davies, and others have served us well, by warning us against a too-rigid pattern of linear thought. But used in this sense, it is not at all clear that “midrashic material” is necessarily unhistorical.

5. A related objection insists that these stories “are not primarily didactic” but “kerygmatic” (Davies, Setting, p. 67), that they are intended as proclamations about the truth of the person of Jesus but not as factual information. The rigid dichotomy between proclamation and teaching is not as defensible as when C.H. Dodd first proposed it (see on 3:1). More important, we may ask just what the proclamation intended to proclaim. If the stories express the appreciation of the first Christians for Jesus, precisely what did they appreciate? On the face of it,

Matthew in chapters 1–2 is not saying something vague, such as, “Jesus was so wonderful there must be a touch of the divine about him,” but rather, “Jesus is the promised Messiah of the line of David, and he is ‘Emmanuel,’ ‘God with us,’ because his birth was the result of God’s supernatural intervention, making Jesus God’s very Son; and his early months were stamped with strange occurrences which, in the light of subsequent events, weave a coherent pattern of theological truths and historical attestation to divine providence in the matter.”

6. Some argue that the (to us) artificial way these chapters cite the OT shows a small concern for historicity. The reverse argument is surely more impressive: If the events of Matthew 1–2 do not relate easily to the OT texts, this attests their historical credibility; for no one in his right mind would invent “fulfillment” episodes problematic to the texts being fulfilled. The fulfillment texts, though difficult, do fit into a coherent pattern (cf. Introduction section 11. b), and below on 1:22–23). More importantly, their presence shows that Matthew sees Jesus as one who fulfills the OT.

This not only sets the stage for some of Matthew’s most important themes; it also means that Matthew is working from a perspective on salvation history that depends on before and after, prophecy and fulfillment, type and antitype, relative ignorance and progressive revelation.

This has an important bearing on our discussion of midrash, because whatever else Jewish midrash may be, it is not related to salvation history or fulfillment schemes. Add to the foregoing considerations the fact that, wherever in chapters 1–2 he can be tested against the known background of Herod the Great, Matthew proves reliable (some details below).

There is a good case for treating chapters 1–2 as both history and theology.

2nd, the following theological considerations require mention.

1. Often it is argued or even assumed (e.g., Dunn, Christology, pp. 49–50), that the concepts “virginal” conception and “preexistence” applied to the one person Jesus are mutually exclusive. Certainly it is difficult to see how a divine being could become genuinely human by means of an ordinary birth. Nevertheless there is no logical or theological reason to think that virginal conception and preexistence preclude each other.

2. Related to this is the theory of R.E. Brown (Birth of Messiah, pp. 140–41), who proposes a retrojected Christology. The early Christians, he argues, first focused attention on Jesus’ resurrection, which they perceived as the moment of his installation into his messianic role. Then with further reflection they pushed back the time of his installation to his baptism, then to his birth, and finally to a theory regarding his preexistence. There may be some truth to the scheme. Just as the first Christians did not come to an instant grasp of the relationship between law and gospel (as the Book of Acts amply demonstrates), so their understanding of Jesus doubtless matured and deepened with time and further revelation. But the theory often depends on a rigid and false reconstruction of early church history (cf. Introduction, section 2) and dates the documents, against other evidence, on the basis of this reconstruction. Worse, in the hands of some it transforms the understanding of the disciples into historical reality: that is, Jesus had no preexistence and was not virgin born, but these things were progressively predicated of him by his followers. Gospel evidence for Jesus’ self-perception as preexistent is then facilely dismissed as late and inauthentic. The method is of doubtful worth.

Matthew, despite his strong insistence on Jesus' virginal conception, includes several veiled allusions to Jesus' preexistence; and there is no reason to think he found the two concepts incompatible. Moreover R.H. Fuller ("The Conception/ Birth of Jesus as a Christological Moment," Journal for the Study of the New Testament 1 [1978]: 37–52) has shown that the virginal conception-birth motif in the NT is not infrequently connected with the "sending of the Son" motif, which (contra Fuller) in many places already presupposes the preexistence of the Son.

3. We are dealing in these chapters with King Messiah who comes to his people in covenant relationship. The point is well established, if occasionally exaggerated, by Nolan, who speaks of the "Royal Covenant Christology."

4. It is remarkable that the title "Son of God," important later in Matthew, is not found in Matthew 1–2. It may lurk behind 2:15. Still it would be false to argue that Matthew does not connect the Virgin Birth with the title "Son of God."

Matthew 1–2 serves as a finely wrought prologue for every major theme in the Gospel.

We must therefore understand Matthew to be telling us that if Jesus is physically Mary's son and legally Joseph's son, at an even more fundamental level he is God's Son; and in this Matthew agrees with Luke's statement (Luke 1:35).

The dual paternity, one legal and one divine, is unambiguous (cf. Cyrus H. Gordon, "Paternity at Two Levels," JBL 96 [1977]: 101).

18 The word translated “birth” is, in the best MSS (cf. Notes), the word translated “genealogy” in 1:1. Maier prefers “history” of Jesus Christ, taking the phrase to refer to the rest of the Gospel. Yet it is best to take the word to mean “birth” or “origins” in the sense of the beginnings of Jesus Messiah. Even a well-developed christology would not want to read the man “Jesus” and his name back into a preexistent state (cf. on 1:1).

The pledge to be married was legally binding. Only a divorce writ could break it, and infidelity at that stage was considered adultery (cf. Deut 22:23–24; Moore, Judaism, 2:121–22).

The marriage itself took place when the groom (already called “husband,” Mt 1:19) ceremoniously took the bride home (see on 25:1–13). Mary is here introduced unobtrusively. Though comparing the Gospel accounts gives us a picture of her, she does not figure largely in Matthew.

“Before they came together” (prin ē synelthein autous) occasionally refers in classical Greek to sexual intercourse (LSJ, p. 1712); in the other thirty instances of synerchomai in the NT, there is, however, no sexual overtone. But here sexual union is included, occurring at the formal marriage when the “wife” moved in with her “husband.” Only then was sexual intercourse proper. The phrase affirms that Mary’s pregnancy was discovered while she was still betrothed, and the context presupposes that both Mary and Joseph had been chaste (cf. McHugh, pp. 157–63; and for the customs of the day, M Kiddushin [“Betrothals”] and M Ketuboth [“Marriage Deeds”]).

That Mary was “found” to be with child does not suggest a surreptitious attempt at concealment (“found out”) but only that her pregnancy became obvious. This pregnancy came about through the Holy Spirit (even more prominent in Luke’s birth narratives).

There is no hint of pagan deity-human coupling in crassly physical terms. Instead, the power of the Lord, manifest in the Holy Spirit who was expected to be active in the Messianic Age, miraculously brought about the conception.

19

The peculiar Greek expression in this verse allows several interpretations. There are three important ones.

1. Because Joseph, knowing about the virginal conception, was a just man and had no desire to bring the matter out in the open (i.e., to divulge this miraculous conception), he felt unworthy to continue his plans to marry one so highly favored and planned to withdraw (so Gundry, Matthew; McHugh, pp. 164–72; Schlatter). This assumes that Mary told Joseph about the conception. Nevertheless the natural way to read vv. 18–19 is that Joseph learned of his betrothed’s condition when it became unmistakable, not when she told him. Moreover the angel’s reason for Joseph to proceed with the marriage (v. 20) assumes (contra Zerwick, par. 477) that Joseph did not know about the virginal conception.

2. Because Joseph was a just man, and because he did not want to expose Mary to public disgrace, he proposed a quiet divorce. The problem with this is that “just” (NIV, “righteous”) is not defined according to OT law but is taken in the sense of merciful, not given to passionate vengeance, or even nice (cf. 1 Sam 24:17). But this is not its normal sense. Strictly speaking justice conceived in Mosaic prescriptions demanded some sort of action.

3. Because he was a righteous man, Joseph therefore could not in conscience marry Mary who was now thought to be unfaithful. And because such a marriage would have been a tacit admission of his own guilt, and also because he was unwilling to expose her to the disgrace of public divorce, Joseph therefore chose a quieter way, permitted by the law itself. The full rigor of the law might have led to Mary’s stoning, though that was rarely carried out in the first century. Still, a public divorce was possible, though Joseph was apparently unwilling to expose Mary to such shame. The law also allowed for private divorce before two witnesses (Num 5:11–31 interpreted as in M Sotah 1:1–5; cf. David Hill, “A Note on Matthew i. 19,” ExpT 76 [1964–65]: 133–34; rather similar, A. Tosato, “Joseph, Being a Just Man (Matt 1:19),” CBQ 41 [1979]: 547–51). That was what Joseph purposed. It would leave both his righteousness (his conformity to the law) and his compassion intact.

20

Joseph tried to solve his dilemma in what seemed to him the best way possible. Only then did God intervene with a dream.

Dreams as means of divine communication in the NT are concentrated in Matthew's prologue (1:20; 2:2, 13, 19, 22; elsewhere, possibly 27:19; Acts 2:17). An "angel of the Lord" (four times in the prologue: Mt 1:20, 24; 2:13, 19) calls to mind divine messengers in past ages (e.g., Gen 16:7–14; 22:11–18; Exod 3:2–4:16), in which it was not always clear whether the heavenly "messenger" (the meaning of angelos) was a manifestation of Yahweh. They most commonly appeared as men.

We must not read medieval paintings into the word "angel" or the stylized cherubim of Revelation 4:6–8. The focus is on God's gracious intervention and the messenger's private communication, not on the details of angelology and their panoramic sweeps of history common in Jewish apocalyptic literature (Bonnard).

The angel's opening words, "Joseph son of David," ties this pericope to the preceding genealogy, maintains interest in the theme of the Davidic Messiah, and, from Joseph's perspective, alerts him to the significance of the role he is to play.

The prohibition, “Do not be afraid,” confirms that Joseph had already decided on his course when God intervened. He was to “take” Mary home as his wife—an expression primarily reflecting marriage customs of the day but not excluding sexual intercourse (cf. TDNT, 4:11–14, for other uses of the verb)— because Mary’s pregnancy was the direct action of the Holy Spirit (a reason that makes nonsense of the attempt by James Lagrand [“How Was the Virgin Mary ‘like a man’ ...? A Note on Mt i 18b and Related Syrian Christian Texts,” NovTest 22 (1980): 97–107] to make the reference to the Holy Spirit in 1:18, ek pneumatos hagiou [“through the Holy Spirit”], mean that Mary brought forth, “as a man, by will”).

21

It was no doubt divine grace that solicited Mary’s cooperation before the conception and Joseph’s cooperation only after it. Here Joseph is drawn into the mystery of the Incarnation. In patriarchal times either a mother (Gen 4:25) or a father (Gen 4:26; 5:3; cf. R.E. Brown, Birth of Messiah, p. 130) could name a child. According to Luke 1:31, Mary was told Jesus’ name; but Joseph was told both name and reason for it.

The Greek is literally “you will call his name Jesus,” strange in both English and Greek. This is not only a Semitism (BDF, par. 157 [2]—the expression recurs in Mt 1:23, 25; Luke 1:13, 31) but also uses the future indicative (kaleseis, lit., “you will call”) with imperatival force—hence NIV, “You are to give him the name Jesus.” This construction is very rare in the NT, except where the LXX is being cited; the effect is to give the verse a strong OT nuance.

“Jesus” (Iēsous) is the Greek form of “Joshua” (cf. Gr. of Acts 7:45; Heb 4:8), which, whether in the long form yēhōšua (“Yahweh is salvation,” Exod 24:13) or in one of the short forms, e.g., yēšûa (“Yahweh saves,” Neh 7:7), identifies Mary’s Son as the one who brings Yahweh’s promised eschatological salvation.

There are several Joshuas in the OT, at least two of them not very significant (1 Sam 6:14; 2 Kings 23:8). Two others, however, are used in the NT as types of Christ: Joshua, successor to Moses and the one who led the people into the Promised Land (and a type of Christ in Hebrew chapters 3–4), and Joshua the high priest, contemporary of Zerubbabel (Ezra 2:2; 3:2–9; Neh 7:7), “the Branch” who builds the temple of the Lord (Zech 6:11–13). But instead of referring to either of these, the angel explains the significance of the name by referring to Psalm 130:8: “He [Yahweh] himself will redeem Israel from all their sins” (cf. Gundry, Use of OT, pp. 127–28).

There was much Jewish expectation of a Messiah who would “redeem” Israel from Roman tyranny and even purify his people, whether by fiat or appeal to law (e.g., Ps Sol 17). But there was no expectation that the Davidic Messiah would give his own life as a ransom (20:28) to save his people from their sins.

The verb “save” can refer to deliverance from physical danger (8:25), disease (9:21–22), or even death (24:22); in the NT it commonly refers to the comprehensive salvation inaugurated by Jesus that will be consummated at his return.

Here it focuses on what is central, viz., salvation from sins; for in the biblical perspective sin is the basic (if not always the immediate) cause of all other calamities. This verse therefore orients the reader to the fundamental purpose of Jesus’ coming and the essential nature of the reign he inaugurates as King Messiah, heir of David’s throne (cf: Ridderbos, pp. 193ff.).

Though to Joseph “his people” would be the Jews, even Joseph would understand from the OT that some Jews fell under God’s judgment, while others became a godly remnant. In any event, it is not long before Matthew says that both John the Baptist (3:9) and Jesus (8:11) picture Gentiles joining with the godly remnant to become disciples of the Messiah and members of “his people” (see on 16:18; cf. Gen 49:10; Titus 2:13–14; Rev 14:4).

The words “his people” are therefore full of meaning that is progressively unpacked as the Gospel unfolds. They refer to “Messiah’s people.”

Although most EV conclude the angel's remarks at the end of v. 21, there is good reason to think that they continue to the end of v. 23, or at least to the end of the word "Immanuel."

This particular fulfillment formula occurs only three times in Matthew: here; 21:4; 26:56. In the last it is natural to take it as part of Jesus' reported speech (cf. 26:55); and this is possible, though less likely, in 21:4. Matthew's patterns are fairly consistent. So it is not unnatural to extend the quotation to the end of 1:23 as well. (JB recognizes Matthew's consistency by ending Jesus' words in 26:55, making 26:56 Matthew's remark!) This is more convincing when we recall that only these three fulfillment formulas use the perfect gegonen (NIV, "took place") instead of the expected aorist. Some take the verb as an instance of a perfect standing for an aorist (so BDF, par. 343, but this is a disputed classification). Others think it means that the event "stands recorded" in the abiding Christian tradition (McNeile; Moule, Idiom Book, p. 15); still others take it as a stylistic indicator that Matthew himself introduced the fulfillment passage (Rothfuchs, pp. 33–36). But if we hold that Matthew presents the angel as saying the words, then the perfect may enjoy its normal force: "all this has taken place" (cf. esp. Fenton; cf. also Stendahl, Peake; B. Weiss, Das Matthäus-Evangelium [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck und Ruprecht, 1898]; Zahn).

R.E. Brown (Birth of Messiah, p. 144, n. 31) objects that nowhere in Scripture does an angel cite Scripture in this fashion; but, equally, nowhere in Scripture is there a virgin birth in this fashion. Matthew knew that Satan can cite Scripture (4:6–7); he may not have thought it strange if an angel does. Broadus's objection, that the angel would in that case be anticipating an event that has not yet occurred, and this is strange when cast in fulfillment language, lacks weight; for the conception has occurred, and the pregnancy has become well advanced, even if the birth has not yet taken place. Joseph needs to know at this stage that "all this took place" to fulfill what the Lord had said through the prophet. The weightiest argument is the perfect tense.

The last clause is phrased with exquisite care, literally, "the word spoken by [hypo] the Lord through [dia] the prophet." The prepositions make a distinction between the mediate and the intermediate agent (RHG, p. 636), presupposing a view of Scripture like that in 2 Peter 1:21.

Matthew uses the verb "to fulfill" (plēroō) primarily in his own fulfillment formulas (Mt 1:22; 2:15, 17, 23; 4:14; 8:17; 12:17; 13:35; 21:4; 26:56; 27:9; cf. 26:54) but also in a few other contexts (3:15; 5:17; 13:48; 23:32). (On Matthew's understanding of fulfillment and on the origins of his fulfillment texts, cf. 5:17–20 and Introduction, section 11. b.)

Here two observations are in order.

- First, most of Matthew's OT quotations are easy enough to understand, but the difficult exceptions have sometimes tended to increase the difficulty of the easier ones. Hard cases make bad theology as well as bad law.
- Second, Matthew is not simply ripping texts out of OT contexts because he needs to find a prophecy in order to generate a fulfillment. Discernible principles govern his choices, the most important being that he finds in the OT not only isolated predictions regarding the Messiah but also OT history and people as paradigms that, to those with eyes to see, point forward to the Messiah (e.g., see on 2:15).

23

This verse, on which the literature is legion, is reasonably clear in its context here in Matthew.

Mary is the virgin; Jesus is her son, Immanuel.

But because it is a quotation from Isaiah 7:14, complex issues are raised concerning Matthew's use of the OT.

The linguistic evidence is not as determinative as some think. The Hebrew word ʿalmāh is not precisely equivalent to the English word “virgin” (NIV), in which all the focus is on the lack of sexual experience; nor is it precisely equivalent to “young woman,” in which the focus is on age without reference to sexual experience. Many prefer the translation “young woman of marriageable age.” Yet most of the few OT occurrences refer to a young woman of marriageable age who is also a virgin. The most disputed passage is Proverbs 30:19: “The way of a man with a maiden.” Here the focus of the word is certainly not on virginity. Some claim that here the maiden cannot possibly be a virgin; others (see esp. E.J. Young, Studies in Isaiah [London: Tyndale, 1954], pp. 143–98; Richard Niessen, “The Virginity of the עַלְמָה in Isaiah 7:14,” BS 137 [1980]: 133–50) insist that Proverbs 30:19 refers to a young man wooing and winning a maiden still a virgin.

Although it is fair to say that most OT occurrences presuppose that the ‘almāh is a virgin, because of Proverbs 30:19, one cannot be certain the word necessarily means that. Linguistics has shown that the etymological arguments (reviewed by Niessen) have little force. Young argues that ‘almāh is chosen by Isaiah because the most likely alternative (b^eṭûlāh) can refer to a married woman (Joel 1:8 is commonly cited; Young is supported by Gordon J. Wenham, “Bethulah, ‘A Girl of Marriageable Age,’ ” VetTest 22 [1972]: 326–29). Again, however, the linguistic argument is not as clear-cut as we might like. Tom Wadsworth (“Is There a Hebrew Word for Virgin? Bethulah in the Old Testament,” Restoration Quarterly 23 [1980]: 161–71) insists that every occurrence of b^eṭûlāh in the OT does refer to a virgin: the woman in Joel 1:8, for instance, is betrothed. Again the evidence is a trifle ambiguous. In short there is a presumption in favor of rendering ‘almāh by “young virgin” or the like in Isaiah 7:14. Nevertheless other evidence must be given a hearing.

The LXX renders the word by parthenos which almost always means “virgin.” Yet even with this word there are exceptions: Genesis 34:4 refers to Dinah as a parthenos even though the previous verse makes it clear she is no longer a virgin. This sort of datum prompts C.H. Dodd (“New Testament Translation Problems I,” The Bible Translator 27 [1976]: 301–5, published posthumously) to suggest that parthenos means “young woman” even in Matthew 1:23 and Luke 1:27. This will not do; the overwhelming majority of the occurrences of parthenos in both biblical and profane Greek require the rendering “virgin”; and the unambiguous context of Matthew 1 (cf. vv. 16, 18, 20, 25) puts Matthew’s intent beyond dispute, as Jean Carmignac (The Meaning of parthenos in Luke 1. 27: A reply to C.H. Dodd, The Bible Translator 28 [1977]: 327–30) was quick to point out. If, unlike the LXX, the later (second century A.D.) Greek renderings of the Hebrew text of Isaiah 7:14 prefer neanis (“young woman”) to parthenos (so Aq., Symm., Theod.), we may legitimately suspect a conscious effort by the Jewish translators to avoid the Christian interpretation of Isaiah 7:14.

The crucial question is how we are to understand Isaiah 7:14 in its relationship to Matthew 1:23. Of the many suggestions, five deserve mention.

1. Hill, J.B. Taylor (Douglas, Bible Dictionary, 3:1625), and others support W.C. van Unniks argument (“Dominus Vobiscum,” New Testament Essays, ed. A.J.B. Higgins [Manchester: University Press, 1959], pp. 270–305), who claimed Isaiah meant that a young woman named her child Immanuel as a tribute to God’s presence and deliverance and that the passage applies to Jesus because Immanuel fits his mission. This does not take the “sign” (Isa 7:11, 14) seriously; v. 11 expects something spectacular. Nor does it adequately consider the time lapse (vv. 15–17). Moreover, it assumes a very casual link between Isaiah and Matthew.

2. Many others take Isaiah as saying that a young woman—a virgin at the time of the prophecy (Broadus)—would bear a son and that before he reaches the age of discretion (perhaps less than two years from the time of the prophecy), Ahaz will be delivered from his enemies. Matthew, being an inspired writer, sees a later fulfillment in Jesus; and we must accept it on Matthew’s authority. W.S. LaSor thinks this provides canonical support for a senses plenior (“fuller sense”) approach to Scripture (“The Sensus Plenior and Biblical Interpretation,” Scripture, Tradition, and Interpretation, ed. W. Ward Gasque and William S. LaSor [Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1978], pp. 271–72). In addition to several deficiencies in interpreting Isaiah

7:14–17 (e.g., the supernaturalness of the sign in 7:11 is not continued in 7:14), this position is intrinsically unstable, seeking either a deeper connection between Isaiah and Matthew or less reliance on Matthew’s authority. Hendriksen (p. 140) holds that the destruction of Pekah and Rezin was a clear sign that the line of the Messiah was being protected. But this is to postulate, without textual warrant, two signs—the sign of the child and the sign of the deliverance—and it presupposes that Ahaz possessed remarkable theological acumen in recognizing the latter sign.

3. Many (esp. older) commentators (e.g., Alexander, Hengstenberg, Young) reject any notion of double fulfillment and say that Isaiah 7:14 refers exclusively to Jesus Christ. This does justice to the expectation of a miraculous sign, the significance of “Immanuel,” and the most likely meaning of ‘almāh and parthenos. But it puts more strain on the relation of a sign to Ahaz. It seems weak to say that before a period of time equivalent to the length of time between Jesus’ (Immanuel’s) conception and his reaching an age of discretion Ahaz’s enemies will be destroyed. Most commentators in this group insist on a miraculous element in “sign” (v. 11). But though Immanuel’s birth is miraculous, how is the “sign” given Ahaz miraculous?

4. A few have argued, most recently Gene Rice (“A Neglected Interpretation of the Immanuel Prophecy,” ZAW 90 [1978]: 220–27), that in Isaiah 7:14–17 Immanuel represents the righteous remnant—God is “with them”—and that the mother is Zion. This may be fairly applied to Jesus and Mary in Matthew 1:23, since Jesus’ personal history seems to recapitulate something of the Jews’ national history (cf. 2:15; 4:1–4). Yet this sounds contrived. Would Ahaz have understood the words so metaphorically? And though Jesus sometimes appears to recapitulate Israel, it is doubtful that NT writers ever thought Mary recapitulates Zion.

5. The most plausible view is that of J.A. Motyer (“Context and Content in the Interpretation of Isaiah 7:14,” Tyndale Bulletin 21 [1970]: 118–25). It is a modified form of the third interpretation and depends in part on recognizing a crucial feature in Isaiah. Signs in the OT may function as a present persuader (e.g., Exod 4:8–9) or as “future confirmation” (e.g., Exod 3:12). Isaiah 7:14 falls in the latter case because Immanuel’s birth comes too late to be a “present persuader.” The “sign” (v. 11) points primarily to threat and foreboding. Ahaz has rejected the Lord’s gracious offer (vv. 10–12), and Isaiah responds in wrath (v. 13). The “curds and honey” Immanuel will eat (v. 15) represent the only food left in the land on the day of wrath (vv. 18–22). Even the promise of Ephraim’s destruction (v. 8) must be understood to embrace a warning (v. 9b; Motyer, “Isaiah 7:14,” pp. 121–22). Isaiah sees a threat, not simply to Ahaz, but to the “house of David” (vv. 2, 13) caught up in faithlessness. To this faithless house Isaiah utters his prophecy. Therefore Immanuel’s birth follows the coming events (it is a “future confirmation”) and will take place when the Davidic dynasty has lost the throne.

Motyer shows the close parallels between the prophetic word to Judah (Isa 7:1–9:7) and the prophetic word to Ephraim (9:8–11:16). To both there come the moment of decision as the Lord’s word threatens wrath (7:1–17; 9:8–10:4), the time of judgment mediated by the Assyrian invasion (7:18–8:8; 10:5–15), the destruction of God’s foes but the salvation of a remnant (8:9–22; 10:16–34), and the promise of a glorious hope as the Davidic monarch reigns and brings prosperity to his people (9:1–7; 11:1–16). The twofold structure argues for the cohesive unity between the prophecy of Judah and that to Ephraim. If this is correct, Isaiah 7:1–9:7 must be read as a unit—i.e., 7:14 must not be treated in isolation. The promised Immanuel (7:14) will possess the land (8:8), thwart all opponents (8:10), appear in Galilee of the Gentiles (9:1) as a great light to those in the land of the shadow of death (9:2). He is the Child and Son called “Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace” in 9:6, whose government and peace will never end as he reigns on David’s throne forever (9:7).

Much of Motyer’s work is confirmed by a recent article by Joseph Jensen (“The Age of Immanuel,” CBQ 41 [1979]: 220–39; he does not refer to Motyer), who extends the plausibility of this structure by showing that Isaiah 7:15 should be taken in a final sense; i.e., Immanuel will eat the bread of affliction in order to learn (unlike Ahaz!) the lesson of obedience. There is no reference to “age of discretion.” Further, Jensen believes that Isa 7:16–25 points to Immanuel’s coming only after the destruction of the land (6:9–13 suggests the destruction extends to Judah as well as to Israel); that Immanuel and Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz, Isaiah’s son (8:1), are not the same; and that only Isaiah’s son sets a time limit relevant to Ahaz.

The foregoing discussion was unavoidable. For if Motyer’s view fairly represents Isaiah’s thought, and if Matthew understood him in this way, then much light is shed on the first Gospel.

The Immanuel figure of Isaiah 7:14 is a messianic figure, a point Matthew has rightly grasped. Moreover this interpretation turns on an understanding of the place of the Exile in Isaiah chapters 6–12, and Matthew has divided up his genealogy (Mt 1:11–12, 17) precisely in order to draw attention to the Exile. In 2:17–18 the theme of the Exile returns.

A little later, as Jesus begins his ministry (4:12–16), Matthew quotes Isaiah 9:1–2, which, if the interpretation adopted here is correct, properly belongs to the Immanuel prophecies of Isaiah 7:14, 9:6.

Small wonder that after such comments by Matthew, Jesus' next words announced the kingdom (Mt 4:17; cf. Isa 9:7). Isaiah's reference to Immanuel's affliction for the sake of learning obedience (cf. on Isa 7:15 above) anticipates Jesus' humiliation, suffering, and obedient sonship, a recurring theme in this Gospel.

This interpretation also partially explains Matthew's interest in the Davidic lineage; and it strengthens a strong interpretation of "Immanuel." Most scholars (e.g., Bonnard) suppose that this name in Isaiah reflects a hope that God would make himself present with his people ("Immanuel" derives from 'immānû'ēl, "God with us"); and they apply the name to Jesus in a similar way, to mean that God is with us, and for us, because of Jesus.

But if Immanuel in Isaiah is a messianic figure whose titles include "Mighty God," there is reason to think that "Immanuel" refers to Jesus himself, that he is "God with us." Matthew's use of the preposition "with" at the end of 1:23 favors this (cf. Fenton, "Matthew 1:20–23," p. 81). Though "Immanuel" is not a name in the sense that "Jesus" is Messiah's name (1:21), in the OT Solomon was named "Jedidiah" ("Beloved of Yahweh," 2 Sam 12:25), even though he apparently was not called that. Similarly...

Immanuel is a "name" in the sense of title or description.

No greater blessing can be conceived than for God to dwell with his people

(Isa 60:18–20; Ezek 48:35; Rev 21:23).

Jesus is the one called “God with us”: the designation evokes John 1:14, 18. As if that were not enough, Jesus promises just before his ascension to be with us to the end of the age (28:20; cf. also 18:20), when he will return to share his messianic banquet with his people (25:10).

If “Immanuel” is rightly interpreted in this sense, then the question must be raised whether “Jesus” (1:21) should receive the same treatment. Does “Jesus” (“Yahweh saves”) mean Mary’s Son merely brings Yahweh’s salvation, or is he himself in some sense the Yahweh who saves? If “Immanuel” entails the higher christology, it is not implausible that Matthew sees the same in “Jesus.” The least we can say is that Matthew does not hesitate to apply OT passages descriptive of Yahweh directly to Jesus (cf. on 3:3).

Matthew's quotation of Isaiah 7:14 is very close to the LXX; but he changes "you will call" to "they will call." This may reflect a rendering of the original Hebrew, if 1QIsa^a is pointed appropriately (cf. Gundry, Use of OT, p. 90). But there is more here:

The people whose sins Jesus forgives
(1:21) are the ones who will gladly call him "God with us"
(cf. Frankemolle, pp. 17–19).

24–25

When Joseph woke up (from his sleep, not his dream), he "took Mary home as his wife" (v. 24; same expression as in 1:20).

Throughout Matthew 1–2 the pattern of God's sovereign intervention followed by Joseph's or the Magi's response is repeated. While the story is told simply, Joseph's obedience and submission under these circumstances is scarcely less remarkable than Mary's (Luke 1:38).

Matthew wants to make Jesus' virginal conception quite unambiguous, for he adds that Joseph had no sexual union with Mary (lit., he did not "know" her, an OT euphemism) until she gave birth to Jesus (v. 25).

The "until" clause most naturally means that Mary and Joseph enjoyed normal conjugal relations after Jesus' birth (cf. further on 12:46; 13:55). Contrary to McHugh (p. 204), the imperfect eginōsken ("did not know [her]") does not hint at continued celibacy after Jesus' birth but stresses the faithfulness of the celibacy till Jesus' birth.

So the virgin-conceived Immanuel was born. And eight days later, when the time came for him to be circumcised (Luke 2:21), Joseph named him “Jesus.”

Notes

- 18 Some MSS have γέννησις (gennēsis, “birth”) instead of γένεσις (genesis, “birth,” “origin,” or “history”): the two words are easily confused both orthographically and, in early pronunciation systems, phonetically. The former word is common in the Fathers to refer to the Nativity and is cognate with γεννάω (gennaō, “I beget”); so it is transcriptional less likely to be original. The δέ (de, “but”) beginning the verse is doubtless a mild adversative. All the preceding generations have been listed, “but” the birth of Jesus comes into a class of its own. Οὕτως (houtōs, “thus”) with the verb ἦν (ēn, “was”) is rare and is here equivalent to τοιαύτη (toiautē, in this way; cf. BDF, par. 434 [2]). “Holy Spirit” is anarthrous, which is not uncommon in the Gospels; and in that case the word order is always πνεῦμα ἅγιον (pneuma hagion). When the article is used, there is an approximately even distribution between τὸ ἅγιον πνεῦμα (to hagion pneuma, “the Holy Spirit”) and τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον (to pneuma to hagion, “the Spirit the Holy”); cf. Moule, Idiom Book, p. 113.
- 19 In δίκαιος ὢν και μὴ θέλων (dikaios ōn kai mē thelōn, lit., “being just and not willing” NIV, “a righteous man and did not want”), it does not seem possible to take the first participle concessively (i.e., “although a righteous man”) because of the kai; the two participles should be taken as coordinate.
- 20 Ἴδού (idou, “behold”) appears for the first of sixty-two times in Matthew. It often introduces surprising action (Schlatter), or serves to arouse interest (Hendriksen); but it is so common it seems sometimes to have no force at all (cf. Moulton, Prolegomena, p. 11; E.J. Pryke, “ΙΔΕ and ΙΔΟΥ,” NTS 14 [1968]: 418–24).
- 21 The noun ἁμαρτία (hamartia, sin) occurs at 3:6; 9:2, 5–6; 12:31; 26:38; ἁμαρτανῶ (hamartōlos, “I sin”) is found at 18:15, 21; 27:4; and ἁμαρτωλός (hamartanō, “sinner”) at 9:10–11, 13; 11:19; 26:45.
- 22 Contrary to Moule (Idiom Book, p. 142), the ἵνα (hina, “in order to” or “with the result that”) clause is not ecclastic (consecutive). Although in NT Greek hina is not always telic, yet the very idea of fulfillment presupposes an overarching plan; and if there be such a plan, it is difficult to imagine Matthew saying no more than that such and such took place with the result that the Scriptures were fulfilled, unless the Mind behind the plan has no power to effect it—which is clearly contrary to Matthew’s thought. See further on 5:17.¹

Exalting Jesus In Matthew Commentary: Platt

¹ D. A. Carson, “Matthew,” in The Expositor’s Bible Commentary: Matthew, Mark, Luke, ed. Frank E. Gaebelein, vol. 8 (Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan Publishing House, 1984), 70–82.

Our Mysterious And Majestic King

MATTHEW 1:18–25

Main Idea: Jesus Christ is fully God and fully human, and He has come to save His people from their sins.

I. How Jesus Came

- A. To a virgin mother
- B. To an adoptive father
- C. Amidst a fallen world

II. Who Jesus Is

- A. As the Son of man, Jesus is fully human.
- B. As the Son of God, Jesus is fully divine.
- C. The Incarnation is the most extraordinary miracle in the whole Bible.
- D. The Incarnation is the most profound mystery in the whole universe.

III. What Jesus Confirms

- A. God is the Creator and Re-Creator of all things.
- B. God is always faithful to His Word.
- C. God is transcendent over us, yet He is present with us.

In the latter half of Matthew 1 we encounter the most extraordinary miracle in the whole Bible, and the most remarkable mystery in the whole universe. This miraculous mystery is described in eight simple verses. Referring to this miracle, J. I. Packer said, “It is here, in the thing that happened at the first Christmas, that the profoundest and most unfathomable depths of the Christian revelation lie” (Packer, “For Your Sakes He Became Poor,” 69). Our souls ought to be captivated with fascinating glory in the midst of a familiar story.

Personally, this is a story that I have a new perspective on, because Matthew 1:18–25 is really a story of adoption. A short time ago, my wife and I returned from China with our new daughter. I am mesmerized by this little girl, and it’s such a fascinating dynamic. Biologically, it’s obvious that I’m not her father; yet, she is my daughter, and I love her and am smitten by her as a daddy. After spending a month in China filling out paperwork and writing her first name next to my last name, I’ve been reminded that this little girl is now fully a part of our family. As I consider Matthew’s account of Jesus’ birth, I’m struck in a fresh way that Joseph was in very similar shoes—Jesus was not his biological son.

How Jesus Came

MATTHEW 1:18–25

Several aspects of this passage call for some explanation. Matthew begins by talking about the “birth of Jesus Christ” (18; emphasis added). Remember that “Christ” is not Jesus’ last name; rather, it means “the Messiah,” the Anointed One. The word “engaged” in verse 18, which the ESV translates as “betrothed,” is also important to consider, since an engagement was much more binding in the first century than it is in the twenty-first century. Once you were engaged, you were legally bound, so to call off an engagement would be equivalent to divorce. After the engagement, the only thing left to do was for the woman to go to the man’s home to physically consummate the marriage and for them to live together (Blomberg, Matthew, 57). This would happen approximately a year after the engagement began. So when Matthew says that she was pregnant “before they came together” (v. 18), he is saying that Mary was with child before she and Joseph consummated their marriage physically.

Also of note is the comment in verse 18 that Mary was pregnant “by the Holy Spirit.” Matthew is clueing us in to something supernatural that was going on, though Mary and Joseph would not find out this “by the Holy Spirit” part until a little later. Put yourself in this young couple’s shoes: Mary, having never had a physical relationship with a man, finds out that she’s pregnant. Imagine the thoughts and emotions, the confusion and the worry, that would be going through your mind. Or consider Joseph: as a husband, you’ve yet to bring your wife into your home to consummate the marriage, and you find out that she is pregnant! There is only one possible explanation in your mind—she has clearly been with another man.

What would you do if you discovered that the woman you love, the one you’ve chosen to marry, was pregnant right before you took her into your home? Verse 19 gives us a glimpse into Joseph’s thought here: “So her husband Joseph, being a righteous man, and not wanting to disgrace her publicly, decided to divorce her secretly.” Joseph had a couple of options at this point. He could either go public and shame Mary, or he could quietly divorce her. In righteous compassion, he resolved to do the latter.

Notice that Joseph is addressed by the angel as “son of David,” which reminds us that Joseph is in the line of King David. The angel gives Joseph the shocking news that “what has been conceived in her is by the Holy Spirit” (v. 20). The virgin birth may be familiar to us, but such a reality was absolutely unheard of for Joseph. Then the angel tells Joseph that Mary will “give birth to a son” (v. 21), a son whom Joseph had no part in bringing about, and that this son would be named “Jesus” because He would “save His people from their sins” (v. 21). So, Joseph was told to adopt this boy as his son, and the legal name by which He would be called—Jesus—means “Yahweh (the Lord) saves.” Now that’s an announcement! Matthew then says in verse 22,

Now all this took place to fulfill what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet:

*See, the virgin will become pregnant and give birth to a son,
and they will name Him Immanuel, which is translated “God is with us.”*

We don't know exactly what Joseph felt at this point, but I imagine he was puzzled. Nevertheless, Matthew gives us a great picture of Joseph's obedience in verses 24–25: "When Joseph got up from sleeping, he did as the Lord's angel had commanded him. He married her but did not know her intimately until she gave birth to a son. And he named Him Jesus." Joseph obeyed without questioning God or laying down conditions. He didn't ask for another night's sleep to see if anything changed; he simply obeyed. And when it says that he "did not know her intimately" in verse 25, Scripture is telling us that Joseph did not have physical relations with Mary. Matthew ends the chapter by telling us that Joseph called the child "Jesus," just as the angel had said. This is how the King of creation came into the world.

Based on what we've seen so far, we can say several things about how Jesus came. First, He was born to a virgin mother. This is an absolutely shocking pair of words—a "virgin mother" is naturally impossible, which points us to the supernatural aspect of Jesus' birth. Physically, Jesus is Mary's son, for even in the genealogy, where we read over and over that one individual fathered another, verse 16 identifies Joseph as Mary's husband and Mary as the one "who gave birth to Jesus who is called the Messiah." The text is careful not to call Joseph the father of Jesus. Instead, it points out that Jesus was biologically the son of Mary.

The fact that Matthew never explicitly refers to Joseph as Jesus' father reminds us that Jesus was born to an adoptive father. After being named and taken into the family by Joseph, legally, Jesus is Joseph's son. And being Joseph's son means that this adoption ties Jesus to the line of David as a royal son. Finally, in terms of how Jesus came, Matthew tells us that all of these things happened amidst a fallen world. Jesus came to a world of sin in need of salvation, which is why it is crucial to see that ultimately, Jesus is God's Son. The problem of sin needed a divine solution.

Part of the purpose of the virgin birth of Jesus is to show us that salvation does not come from man, but from God. Salvation is wholly the work of a supernatural God, not the work of natural man. There is nothing we can do to save ourselves from our sins, which is evident even in the way in which Jesus entered the world. This baby born in Bethlehem was and is the center of all history.

Who Jesus Is

The story of the virgin birth in Matthew 1 forms the foundation for everything we know about who Jesus is. This truth is foundational for why we worship Him, why we follow Him, and why we proclaim Him to the nations. With so much at stake in this one doctrine, we need to think carefully about how we understand this baby born in Bethlehem. The truth here is multifaceted.

As the Son of man, Jesus is fully human. He was born of a woman, so just like any other child, He came as a crying, cooing, bed-wetting baby boy. Don't let yourself picture Jesus apart from His true humanity. It was a holy night, but it wasn't silent. After all, whoever heard of a child coming out of the womb and staying quiet? After sleepless nights of putting my own children to sleep, I can only imagine trying to put a baby down when the cows keep mooing and the donkeys keep braying. Jesus wasn't born with a glowing halo around His head and a smile on His face; He was born like us.

As one who is fully human, Jesus possesses the full range of human characteristics. He is like us physically in that He possesses a human body, and as Matthew will later show us, this body grew tired at points (8:24). That's right, the Sovereign of the universe took on the human limitation of being dependent on sleep! Not only did Jesus grow weary, but He also became hungry (4:2). This was a baby that needed to be fed and nursed and nurtured. He had a body just like ours.

Jesus was also fully human mentally. He possessed a human mind that Luke says, “increased in wisdom” (2:52). He learned in the same way that other children do. Sometimes we get the idea that Jesus came out of the womb using words like “kingdom,” “righteousness,” “substitution,” and “propitiation,” but that’s not the case. Jesus had to learn to say the first-century Jewish equivalent of “Ma-ma” and “Da-da.” He possessed a human mind.

Jesus was also like us emotionally. In Matthew’s Gospel we see the full range of human emotions: for example, Jesus’ soul was troubled and overwhelmed, such that He wept with loud cries and tears (26:36–39). It also seems reasonable to conclude from Scripture that Jesus laughed and smiled; He was not boring.

Finally, after seeing that Jesus was like us physically, mentally, and emotionally, Matthew also says that He was like us outwardly. Or, to put it another way, Jesus’ humanity was plain for all to see. For example, when Jesus taught in the synagogue in His own hometown, the people were amazed, saying,

How did this wisdom and these miracles come to Him? Isn’t this the carpenter’s son? Isn’t His mother called Mary, and His brothers James, Joseph, Simon, and Judas? And His sisters, aren’t they all with us? So where does He get all these things? (13:54–56)

The people who were closest to Jesus for much of His life—His own brothers and the people in His own hometown—recognized Him as merely a man, just like everyone else. He was fully human (Grudem, Systematic Theology, 534–35).

So why is this important? Why emphasize Jesus’ humanity? We must affirm Jesus’ full humanity, because it means that Jesus is fully able to identify with us. He is not unlike us, trying to do something for us. No, Jesus is truly representative of us. Follower of Christ, you have a Savior who is familiar with your struggles—physically, mentally, and emotionally. He is familiar with your sorrow. He is familiar with your suffering (Heb 2:18). This is why it’s comforting to affirm that Jesus was born of a woman, as the Son of Man.

As we affirm Jesus’ humanity, in the very same breath we must acknowledge that as the Son of God, Jesus is fully divine. Just as Jesus possesses the full range of human characteristics, so Jesus possesses the full range of divine characteristics. Consider all that Matthew shows us. First, Jesus has power over disease. He is able to cleanse lepers, give sight to the blind, and cause the lame to walk, all by simply speaking healing into reality. At strategic points, Matthew talks about how Jesus went about healing every disease and every affliction among the people (4:23–24; 9:35). He graciously exercises His power over the whole range of human infirmities.

Second, Jesus’ divinity is on display as He shows His command over nature. In Matthew 8 Jesus rebukes the storm and it immediately calms down, to which the disciples respond, “What kind of man is this?—even the winds and the sea obey Him!” (8:27). Only God possesses this kind of power over nature.

Third, Jesus has authority over sin. That is, He is able to forgive sins, something Matthew tells us explicitly in Jesus’ healing of the paralytic (9:1–6).

The fourth way in which Matthew points to Jesus’ deity is in His control over death. Jesus not only brings others to life (9:23–25), but He even raises Himself from the dead (John 10:17–18).

These claims may sound extravagant, yet this is precisely the portrait Matthew gives us of Jesus. He is fully able to identify with us, and as God, Jesus is fully able to identify with God.

When you put these truths concerning Jesus' nature together, you begin to realize that the incarnation, the doctrine of Jesus' full humanity and full deity, is the most extraordinary miracle in the whole Bible. And if this miracle is true, then everything else in this Gospel account makes total sense. After all, is it strange to see Jesus walking on the water if He's the God who created the very water He's walking on? Is it strange to see Him feeding 5,000 people with five loaves and two fish if He's the One who created their stomachs? Furthermore, if what Scripture says is true, is it even strange to see Jesus rise from the dead? No, not if He's God. The strange thing, the real miracle, is that Jesus died in the first place. The doctrine of the incarnation and Christ's identity as fully human and fully divine is the fundamental point where Muslims, Jews, Jehovah's Witnesses, and countless others disagree with Christianity. It is the ultimate stumbling block. Furthermore, if we're honest, this important doctrine contains some mystery even for those who hold firmly to the biblical witness. So how do we even begin to understand it?

There are some things we must keep in mind if we are to uphold the truth of the incarnation. Clearly Jesus' human nature and divine nature are different, that is, they are to be distinguished in certain ways. One of the heresies that had to be rejected in the early centuries of the church's life was the idea that the human nature of Christ was absorbed into His divine nature, with the result that a third nature was formed, a nature that was neither God nor man. Such a view undermines Jesus' role as our mediator (Grudem, Systematic Theology, 556). Consider how Scripture holds together the separate truths of Christ's human and divine natures:

- He was born a baby and He sustains the universe.
- He was 30 years old and He exists eternally.
- He was tired and omnipotent.
- He died and He conquered death.
- He has returned to heaven and He is present with us.

While we have to maintain a distinction between His natures, we must affirm that Jesus' human nature and divine nature are unified. He is one person, so we don't have to specify in every instance whether Jesus performed a certain action in His divine nature, or whether it was His human nature that did it. The Gospel writers don't say that Jesus was "born in His human nature" or that "in His human nature he died." No, He acts as a unified person, even if His two natures contributed in different ways. Scripture simply says, "Jesus was born" or "Jesus died." One theologian gives the following analogy to illustrate this point: If I were to write a letter, though my toes had nothing to do with the writing process, I would still say, "I wrote the letter," not "My fingers wrote the letter, but my toes had nothing to do with it." I simply say that I wrote the letter, and the meaning is understood (Grudem, Systematic Theology, 562). Similarly, everything that is done by Jesus is unified in such a way that we don't need to distinguish between His two natures when we speak of Him. It does not matter whether His divine or His human nature is specifically in view, because they are always working in perfect unity.

The Incarnation is the most profound mystery in the whole universe. This mystery is encapsulated in what Matthew writes about the virgin birth of Jesus. There are, after all, other ways Jesus could have come into the world. On the one hand, if He had come without any human parent, then it would have been hard for us to imagine or believe that He could really identify with us. On the other hand, if He had come through two human parents—a biological mother and a biological father—then it would be hard to imagine how He could be fully God since His origin would have been exactly the same as ours. But God, in His perfect wisdom and creative sovereignty, ordained a virgin birth to be the avenue through which Christ would come into the world (Grudem, Systematic Theology, 530).

What Jesus Confirms

In light of everything we've seen so far in Matthew 1, there are three clear takeaways. First, God is the Creator and Re-Creator of all things. Interestingly enough, the word Matthew uses for "birth" in verse 18 is transliterated "genesis," which means origin—the origin of Jesus Christ. The imagery, then, in the first book of the New Testament takes us all the way back to the first book of the Old Testament, for in Genesis, the Spirit brings life to men. Scripture opens with the Spirit giving life to all of creation: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. Now the earth was formless and empty, darkness covered the surface of the watery depths, and the Spirit of God was hovering over the surface of the waters" (Gen 1:1–2; emphasis added). Then the Lord breathes life into Adam, the first man (Gen 2:7). Now in Matthew, the Spirit gives life to the Messiah. There were pagan stories of mythological gods who physically procreated with mortal humans, but there is nothing of that kind in this text (Carson, Matthew, 74). This is a picture of the Spirit breathing life into the Messiah in Matthew 1, just as He did for man in Genesis.

You may recall that in Genesis, God promises a seed from a woman. Specifically, He promises to raise up a seed, a singular offspring, who would crush the head of Satan, the serpent (Gen 3:15). Now in Matthew, God delivers that seed through a woman. The parallels between Matthew and Genesis can be drawn out further: in Genesis, a man is born who would succumb to sin. The first man, Adam, initially lived in unhindered communion with his Creator before rebelling against God and falling into sin. Paul tells us in Romans 5 that from Adam's one sin condemnation came to all men (vv. 12–21). We have all inherited a sinful nature from Adam, and we have all succumbed to sin. But with Jesus the story is different.

In the virgin birth, Jesus did not inherit a sinful nature, nor did He inherit the guilt that all other humans inherit from Adam. However, we shouldn't conclude from this that Mary was perfectly sinless, as the Roman Catholic Church has historically taught. Scripture nowhere teaches this; instead, Jesus' birth was a partial interruption in the line that came from Adam. A new Adam has come on the scene, a man who would not succumb to sin. In contrast to the first Adam, in Matthew, a man is born who would save from sin. The God who creates in Genesis 1 is re-creating and redeeming in Matthew 1. He is making a way, through the virgin birth of Christ, for humanity to be rescued from sin and reconciled to God. Just consider how glorious it is that God is the Creator and Re-Creator of all things:

- He takes the hurts in our lives, and He turns them into joy.
- He takes the suffering in our lives, and He turns them into satisfaction.
- He takes the rebellion in our lives, and He clothes us in His righteousness.
- He takes the sin in our lives, and He brings salvation.

In addition to being the Creator and Re-Creator of all things, Matthew 1:22 tells us that God is always faithful to His Word. What has been promised will be fulfilled. As Matthew quotes Isaiah 7:14 and the prophecy of the virgin birth, he says, “Now all this took place to fulfill what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet.” This is the first of ten times that Matthew uses this kind of phrase to speak of Jesus’ fulfillment of Old Testament prophecy and expectations (1:22; 2:15, 17, 23; 4:14; 8:17; 12:17; 13:35; 21:4; 27:9). Matthew makes clear throughout this book that when God makes a promise in His Word, He fulfills it in the world.

We can be certain that God is faithful to His Word, but what we don’t know for sure is how to understand the fulfillment of Isaiah 7:14. Is Isaiah 7:14 a prophecy with a single or double fulfillment? The prophet says, “Therefore, the Lord Himself will give you a sign: The virgin will conceive, have a son, and name him Immanuel.” This prophecy was given at a significant point in Israel’s history, approximately seven hundred years before Jesus’ birth in Matthew 1. King Ahaz, who was mentioned earlier in the genealogy (Matt 1:9), was a wicked king facing threats from foreign nations, and instead of seeking the Lord for help, he sought the help of the Assyrian king. Isaiah brought news to Ahaz that God would deliver His people, but Ahaz refused to listen. This is the context of Isaiah’s promise; despite the people’s rebellion, God would give a sign as a guarantee that the people of God and the line of David would be preserved, not destroyed.

The question is whether or not that sign—the virgin giving birth—was in any way fulfilled around the time of Isaiah’s prophecy. Some scholars believe that this sign was partially fulfilled by a virgin who got married, had relations, got pregnant, and gave birth in the seventh century BC, but then the sign was ultimately fulfilled in the birth of Christ hundreds of years later. Other scholars believe this sign was only fulfilled in the birth of Christ. In the end, it’s difficult to determine whether this prophecy has a single or a double fulfillment; nevertheless, there are some things we do know.

What we do know is that Isaiah 7:14 is a prophecy with certain fulfillment in Christ. The God we worship made a promise through the prophet Isaiah that was fulfilled seven hundred years later in the virgin birth of Christ, and based on that picture, we can be sure that this same God will also prove Himself faithful to us today. So when God says, “I will never leave you or forsake you” (Heb 13:5; Josh 1:5), that is a guarantee. When He says that He is your “refuge and strength, a helper who is always found in times of trouble” (Ps 46:1), you can bank on it. And when He says that “not even death or life, angels or rulers, things present or things to come, hostile powers, height or depth, or any other created thing will have the power to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord” (Rom 8:38–39), you can be confident in His sustaining power. And when God says that there is coming a day when “He will wipe away every tear from their eyes. Death will no longer exist; grief, crying, and pain will exist no longer, because the previous things have passed away” (Rev 21:4), that too is a guarantee. God is always faithful to His Word.

Finally, Matthew 1:18–25 teaches that although God is transcendent over us, He is present with us. That is, in His glory, God is far above us, but in His grace, He is near to us. He is “Immanuel,” which means “God is with us” (v. 23). Stop and consider who this is who promises to be with you: this is the God who spoke the world into being, the God who rules over all creation—every star in the sky, every mountain peak, every grain of sand, the sun and the moon, all the oceans and all the deserts of the earth—the God whom myriads of angels continually worship and sing praise to, the God whose glory is beyond our imagination and whose holiness is beyond our comprehension. This God is with you.

I once had an opportunity to bear witness to the incarnation while sitting across the table from a group of Muslim men in the Middle East during Ramadan, the Muslim holy month. We were finishing a meal late one night (they had just broken their fast), and they asked me to share with them what I believe about God. Knowing that Muslims believe Jesus was a good man, but certainly not God in the flesh (such a claim is blasphemous in Islam), I began to share about who Jesus is. I told them that when I decided to ask my wife to marry me, I did not send someone else to do it for me; I went myself. Why? Because in matters of love, One must go Himself. That's a picture of the incarnation.

This astounding truth of Christianity—the reality that God became flesh (John 1:14)—may be incomprehensible to many, but to those who believe it is irresistible. There is an infinitely great God, mighty in power, who out of His love for us has not simply sent a messenger to tell us about His love. Even better, He has come Himself. And what He came to do is the greatest news in the whole world:

- He came to heal the sick (Matt 4:23–25; 8:14–17).
- He came to feed the hungry (14:13–21 and 15:32–39).
- He came to bless the poor (specifically the poor in spirit; 5:1–12).
- He came to bind the brokenhearted (6:25–34 and 11:28–30).
- He came to deliver the demon-possessed (8:28–34).

As we reflect on these and other blessings of Christ's ministry, we must remember that ultimately, He came to rescue the lost (1:21). Jesus came to a sin-stained world to endure the penalty of sin and to stand in the place of sinners. He came to die on a cross, to give His body, to shed His blood—all so that you and I could be rescued from our sin and reconciled to God. That's the good news of the incarnation. That's why Jesus came.

Reflect and Discuss

1. How does a denial of Jesus' virgin birth affect the gospel message?
2. What details of Jesus' earthly ministry demonstrate His full humanity?
3. List several characteristics of Jesus' ministry that display His divinity.
4. Explain how Jesus' divine and human natures are different, yet unified.
5. Why is it insufficient to say that Jesus was only a great moral example for us?
6. How did Jesus' birth fulfill the promise of Genesis 3:15?
7. How is Jesus contrasted with Adam?
8. How did Jesus fulfill Isaiah 7:14?
9. How would you explain to an unbeliever that Jesus is both God and man?
10. How should Matthew 1:21 shape the way you read the rest of this Gospel?²

² David Platt, Exalting Jesus in Matthew, ed. Daniel L. Akin, David Platt, and Tony Merida, Christ-Centered Exposition Commentary (Nashville, TN: Holman Reference, 2013), 17–28.

St. Andrews Commentary: R.C. Sproul

THE BIRTH OF JESUS

Matthew 1:18–25

When we celebrate the birth of Jesus at Christmas time, our attention is most often given to Luke's account, because it gives us so much information. It tells us of the annunciation of the angel Gabriel to the peasant girl Mary. It includes the story of the shepherds as well as the infancy hymns that are sung by Zacharias and by others during that time.

Matthew's version is much briefer.

We notice at the outset that Matthew gives his account from the viewpoint of Joseph, whereas Luke tells his account from the viewpoint of Mary. Luke assures us that what he wrote in his Gospel was well researched from eyewitnesses, and tradition affirms that Luke got much of his information from Mary herself. Of course, when Matthew wrote his Gospel he had no opportunity to interview Joseph.

Now the birth of Jesus Christ was as follows (v. 18).

This opening assertion is rich in content, as brief as it is.

The word used here for the birth of Jesus is gennēsis.

Our word genesis comes from the Greek ginomai, which means “to be, to become, or happen.” Matthew is asserting that this is how Jesus came to be, which, as we noted in the last chapter, places the birth of Jesus within the framework of history rather than mythology.

The Betrothal of Mary and Joseph

After his mother Mary was betrothed to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Spirit (v. 18).

This takes place after betrothal and prior to marriage.

In our society, a betrothal is considered to be an engagement between two people who intend to become married at a certain time, yet there are countless occasions in which engagements are broken and the marriage never comes to pass. Among the Jews in Jesus’ day, however, a betrothal was far more serious. It was an unbreakable pledge customarily undertaken one year before the wedding, and it carried almost the weight of marriage itself;

it was so close that it required virtually a writ of divorce to end it.

Following betrothal the bride remained under the roof of her parents. She would not move into the home of her husband until after the actual marriage. Therefore, it was serious when a betrothed woman was discovered to be with child; the implications of such a pregnancy were enormous in Jewish society and could, indeed, result in execution of the woman who violated her betrothal by becoming pregnant.

Yet we are told here in Matthew that before Mary came together with Joseph, “she was found with child of the Holy Spirit.”

The father of this child in Mary's womb was not some illicit lover, nor was it Joseph; the paternity was accomplished through the supernatural activity of the Holy Spirit.

In the Apostles' Creed we recite, “Jesus Christ ... was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the virgin Mary ...” Those two miraculous aspects—His conception and His birth—were integral to the faith of the Christian church of the early centuries.

Jesus' conception was extraordinary, not natural but supernatural, accomplished by the divine work of the Spirit, and as a result a baby born to a virgin.

Perhaps no assertion of biblical Christianity fell under greater attack by nineteenth-century liberalism than the account of the virgin birth.

For some reason more attention was given to that than to the resurrection.

Because the story is so blatantly supernatural, it became a stumbling block to those who tried to reduce the essence of the Christian faith to all that can be accomplished through natural humanity.

When Mary's pregnancy was discovered, Joseph, being a just man—one who was also kind and gave detailed attention to the observance of the law of God, not wanting to make her a public example, was minded to put her away secretly (v. 19). He was not willing to call down the wrath of the courts upon his betrothed, and he decided to deal with it from a spirit of compassion. After he thought it over deeply and carefully, he decided to divorce her or put her away in a private manner, so as to save his betrothed from total public humiliation.

While he thought about these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, “Joseph, son of David” (v. 20).

The New Testament makes so much out of the fact that Jesus is the Son of David that it's almost amazing to find Joseph being given that same title, but this is also important for the lineage of Jesus.

For Jesus to be a Son of David in Jewish categories, legally His father also had to be a son of David. That is why the angel gives this honorific title to Joseph when he addresses him, saying, Do not be afraid to take to you Mary your wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit (v. 20).

This is the second time in this brief narrative that the conception of Christ in the womb of Mary is attributed to the work of the Holy Spirit.

In Luke's version, when the angel Gabriel told Mary that she had conceived the child and would bring forth a baby, she was stunned and said, "How can this be since I know not a man?" (Luke 1:34). The angel replied, "With God nothing will be impossible" (Luke 1:37).

Then Gabriel explained to Mary how the birth would take place. The Holy Spirit would overshadow her so that the child would be born as a result of this supernatural work. Luke uses the same language that is used at the dawn of creation: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth, and the earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the face of the deep” (Gen. 1:1–2), and then we are told that the Holy Spirit came and hovered over the waters, and God said, “Let there be light” (v. 3). In the act of creation, the Spirit is moving on the face of the deep, and out of the nothingness of that darkness God, through the power of His Spirit, brings forth the whole of creation.

From the biblical perspective, the genesis of life in the first place was through the power of the Spirit of life, of the Spirit of God. Gabriel was declaring to Mary that same power by which the universe was made; that same power that brought life out of the darkness originally is the power that will overshadow her womb and produce a son.

God doesn't need a human father to bring this to pass.

The Authority to Name

She will bring forth a Son, and you shall call His name JESUS, for He will save His people from their sins (v. 21). It was the privilege of Jewish parents to name their children. The very first enterprise given to humanity in the garden was the scientific task of taxonomy, that is, the task of naming the animals, and in that task of naming, the superior names the subordinate.

God gave to Adam and Eve the responsibility and authority to name everything in the animal kingdom. Yet throughout the Old Testament, when a child was born into specific historical and redemptive purposes, God took away the privilege from the parent and named the child himself, indicating that the child belonged to Him.

That is what happened with Zacharias in the birth of John the Baptist. God told Zacharias what to name his son (Luke 1:13). The same thing happens here in Matthew. The Lord is saying to Joseph, “You are not going to choose a name for this boy. You will name Him what I tell you to name Him, because ultimately He is my Son, and you shall call his name Jesus.”

The etymology behind the name Jesus is “Jehovah saves.”
Name Him Jesus “for He will save His people from their sins.”

The idea of salvation in the Bible in general means some kind of rescue from a threat of destruction or calamity, and the highest, ultimate sense of salvation is rescue from the worst of all possible calamities. The worst calamity that could ever befall human beings is to fall under the judgment of God for their sin. That is the calamity that awaits every person who does not rush to Christ for salvation.

However, the baby is called “Jesus” because He is a savior, and He will save His people from the consequences of their sins.

The Virgin Birth

So all this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet saying, “Behold, the virgin shall be with child, and bear a Son, and they shall call His name Immanuel,” which is translated, “God with us” (vv. 22–23).

This verse, in which Matthew is quoting Isaiah, was sharply attacked by the critics of the nineteenth century. In the Jewish language there are two words that can be used to describe a virgin. The most precise and technical word is not the one that Isaiah chose. Rather, Isaiah chose the other word, which can be translated “young woman” or, more appropriately, “maiden,” which presumes virginity but doesn’t necessitate it.

The critics point to that and say that Isaiah wasn’t speaking of a virgin but saying only that a young woman, a maiden, would conceive.

Therefore, the critics say, the Bible does not teach a virgin birth.

That's what we call the exegesis of despair

...because if you just give a cursory look at the context of this text, there is no doubt that Matthew is teaching that Jesus was born from the womb of a woman who had never been with a man—a virgin.

Isaiah said, “Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a Son, and shall call His name Immanuel” (Isa. 7:14), but here in Matthew the angel says they will call His name “Jesus.”

Those names are not the same, and they do not mean the same thing. Isaiah does not tell us why they will call Him “Immanuel.”

The term Immanuel describes what Christ does. It describes the event of incarnation. He will be called Immanuel because He will be the incarnate presence of God with us, but His proper Jewish name will be Jesus, because “He will save his people from their sins.”

Then Joseph, being aroused from sleep, did as the angel of the Lord commanded him and took to him his wife, and did not know her till she brought forth her firstborn Son. And he called His name JESUS (vv. 24–25).

This reflects not only the obedience and submission of Joseph to what the angel had directed him to do but also that Joseph fully embraces Jesus as his son and fulfills the legal requirements of the genealogy that we examined in the last chapter.

Joseph did this even though the child's name was not selected by him but by the angel. In the ultimate sense, Jesus was named by God, who is His ultimate Father. In the proximate sense, Jesus was named by Joseph, who was given the unspeakable privilege of being the Lord Jesus Christ's earthly father.³

Matthew Commentary: A. Barnes

18. Now the birth of Jesus Christ. The circumstances attending his birth.

Was on this wise. In this manner.

Espoused. Betrothed, or engaged to be married. There was commonly an interval of ten or twelve months, among the Jews, between the contract of marriage and the celebration of the nuptials (see Ge. 24:55; Ju. 14:8; De. 20:7), yet such was the nature of this engagement, that unfaithfulness to each other was deemed adultery. See De. 22:25, 28.

With child by the Holy Ghost. See Note, Lu. 1:35.

³ Robert Charles Sproul, Matthew, St. Andrew's Expository Commentary (Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 2013), 21–25.

19. Her husband. The word in the original does not imply that they were married. It means here the man to whom she was espoused.

A just man. Justice consists in rendering to every man his own. Yet this is evidently not the character intended to be given here of Joseph. The meaning is that he was kind, tender, merciful; that he was so attached to Mary that he was not willing that she should be exposed to public shame. He sought, therefore, secretly to dissolve the connection, and to restore her to her friends without the punishment commonly inflicted on adultery. The word just has not unfrequently this meaning of mildness, or mercy. See 1 Jn. 1:9.; comp. Cicero, De Fin. 5, 23.

A public example. To expose her to public shame or infamy. Adultery has always been considered a crime of a very heinous nature. In Egypt it was punished by cutting off the nose of the adulteress; in Persia the nose and ears were cut off; in Judea the punishment was death by stoning, Le. 20:10; Eze. 16:38, 40; Jn. 8:5. This punishment was also inflicted where the person was not married, but betrothed, De. 21:23, 24.

In this case, therefore, the regular punishment would have been death in this painful and ignominious manner. Yet Joseph was a religious man—mild and tender; and he was not willing to complain of her to the magistrate, and expose her to death, but sought to avoid the shame, and to put her away privately.

Put her away privily. The law of Moses gave the husband the power of divorce, De. 24:1. It was customary in a bill of divorce to specify the causes for which the divorce was made, and witnesses were also present to testify to the divorce. But in this case, it seems, Joseph resolved to put her away without specifying the cause; for he was not willing to make her a public example. This is the meaning here of privily. Both to Joseph and Mary this must have been a great trial. Joseph was ardently attached to her, but her character was likely to be ruined, and he deemed it proper to separate her from him. Mary was innocent, but Joseph was not yet satisfied of her innocence. We may learn from this to put our trust in God. He will defend the innocent. Mary was in danger of being exposed to shame. Had she been connected with a cruel, passionate, and violent man, she would have died in disgrace. But God had so ordered it that she was betrothed to a man mild, amiable, and tender; and in due time Joseph was apprised of the truth in the case, and took his faithful and beloved wife to his bosom. Thus our only aim should be to preserve a conscience void of offence, and God will guard our reputation. We may be assailed by slander; circumstances may be against us; but in due time God will take care to vindicate our character and save us from ruin. See Ps. 37:5, 6.

20. He thought on these things. He did not act hastily. He did not take the course which the law would have permitted him to do, if he had been hasty, violent, or unjust.

It was a case deeply affecting his happiness, his character, and the reputation and character of his chosen companion. God will guide the thoughtful and the anxious. And when we have looked patiently at a perplexed subject, and know not what to do, then God, as in the case of Joseph, will interpose to lead us and direct our way. Ps. 25:9.

The angel of the Lord.

The word angel* literally means a messenger.

It is applied chiefly in the Scriptures to those invisible holy beings who have not fallen into sin; who live in heaven (1 Ti. 5:21; compare Jude 6); and who are sent forth to minister to those who shall be heirs of salvation. See Notes on He. 1:13, 14, and on Da. 9:21. The word is sometimes applied to men, as messengers (Lu. 7:24; 9:52; Ja. 2:25); to the winds (Ps. 104:4); to the pestilence (Ps. 78:49); or to whatever is appointed to make known or to execute the will of God. It is commonly applied, however, to the unfallen, happy spirits that are in heaven, whose dignity and pleasure it is to do the will of God. Various ways were employed by them in making known the will of God, by dreams, visions, assuming a human appearance, etc.

In a dream.

This was a common way of making known the will of God to the ancient prophets and people of God, Ge. 20:3; 30:1, 11, 24; 37:5; 41:1; 1 Ki. 3:5; Dan. 7:1; Job 4:13–15; compare my Notes on Isaiah, vol. i. p. xi, xii, xiii.

In what way it was ascertained that these dreams were from God cannot now be ascertained. It is sufficient for us to know that in this way many of the prophecies were communicated, and to remark that there is no evidence that we are to put reliance on our dreams.

Son of David. Descendant of David. See ver. 1. The angel put him in mind of his relation to David perhaps to prepare him for the intelligence that Mary was to be the mother of the Messiah—the promised heir of David.

Fear not. Do not hesitate, or have any apprehensions about her virtue and purity. Do not fear that she will be unworthy of you, or will disgrace you.

To take unto thee Mary thy wife. To take her as thy wife; to recognize her as such, and to treat her as such.

For that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.

Is the direct creation of divine power. A body was thus prepared pure and holy, and free from the corruption of sin, in order that he might be qualified for his great work—the offering of a pure sacrifice to God.

As this was necessary in order to the great work which he came to perform, Joseph is directed by an angel to receive her as pure and virtuous, and as every way worthy of his love. Comp. Notes on He. 10:5.

21. His name JESUS.

The name Jesus is the same as Saviour.

It is derived from the verb signifying to save. In Hebrew it is the same as Joshua. In two places in the New Testament it is used where it means Joshua, the leader of the Jews into Canaan, and in our translation the name Joshua should have been retained, Ac. 7:45; He. 4:8.

It was a very common name among the Jews.

He shall save. This expresses the same as the name, and on this account the name was given to him.

He saves men by dying to redeem them; by giving the Holy Spirit to renew them (Jn. 16:7, 8); by his power in enabling them to overcome their spiritual enemies, in defending them from danger, in guiding them in the path of duty, in sustaining them in trials and in death; and he will raise them up at the last day, and exalt them to a world of purity and love.

His people.

Those whom the Father has given to him.

The Jews were called the people of God because he had chosen them to himself, and regarded them as his peculiar and beloved people, separate from all the nations of the earth. Christians are called the people of Christ because it was the purpose of the Father to give them to him (Is. 53:11; Jn. 6:37); and because in due time he came to redeem them to himself, Tit. 2:14; 1 Pe. 1:2.

From their sins. This was the great business of Jesus in coming and dying.

It was not to save men IN their sins, but FROM their sins.

Sinners could not be happy in heaven.

It would be a place of wretchedness to the guilty. The design of Jesus was, therefore, to save them from sin; and from this we may learn, 1st, That Jesus had a design in coming into the world. He came to save his people; and that design will surely be accomplished. It is impossible that in any part of it he should fail. 2d.

We have no evidence that we are his people unless we are saved from the power and dominion of sin.

A mere profession, of being his people will not answer. Unless we give up our sins; unless we renounce the pride, pomp, and pleasure of the world, we have no evidence that we are the children of God.

It is impossible that we should be Christians if we indulge in sin and live in the practice of any known iniquity. See 1 Jn. 3:7, 8.

3d. That all professing Christians should feel that there is no salvation unless it is from sin, and that they can never be admitted to a holy heaven hereafter unless they are made pure, by the blood of Jesus, here.

22. Now all this was done. The prophecy here quoted is recorded in Is.

7:14. See Notes on that passage. The prophecy was delivered about 740 years before Christ, in the reign of Ahaz, king of Judah. The land of Judea was threatened with an invasion by the united armies of Syria and Israel, under the command of Rezin and Pekah. Ahaz was alarmed, and seems to have contemplated calling in aid from Assyria to defend him. Isaiah was directed, in his consternation, to go to Ahaz, and tell him to ask a sign from God (Is. 7:10, 11); that is, to look to God rather than to Assyria for aid. This he refused to do. He had not confidence in God, but feared that the land would be overrun by the armies of Syria (ver. 12), and relied only on the aid which he hoped to receive from Assyria. Isaiah answered that, in these circumstances, the Lord would himself give a sign, or a pledge, that the land should be delivered. The sign was, that a virgin should have a son, and that before that son would arrive to years of discretion, the land would be forsaken by these hostile Kings. The prophecy was therefore designed originally to signify to Ahaz that the land would certainly be delivered from its calamities and dangers, and that the deliverance would not be long delayed. The land of Syria and Israel, united now in confederation, would be deprived of both their kings, and thus the land of Judah would be freed from the threatening danger. This appears to be the literal fulfilment of the passage in Isaiah.

Might be fulfilled. It is more difficult to know in what sense this could be said to be fulfilled in the birth of Christ. To understand this, it may be remarked that the word fulfilled is used in the Scriptures and in other writings in many senses, of which the following are some: 1st. When a thing is clearly predicted, and comes to pass, as the destruction of Babylon, foretold in Is. 13:19–22; and of Jerusalem, in Mat. 24. 2d. When one thing is typified or shadowed forth by another, and when the event occurs, the type is said to be fulfilled. This was the case in regard to the types and sacrifices in the Old Testament, which were fulfilled by the coming of Christ. See He. 9. 3d. When prophecies of future events are expressed in language more elevated and full than the particular thing, at first denoted, demands. Or, in other words, when the language, though it may express one event, is also so full and rich as appropriately to express other events in similar circumstances and of similar import, they may be said to be fulfilled. Thus, e.g., the last chapters of Isaiah, from the fortieth chapter, foretell the return of the Jews into Babylon, and every circumstance mentioned occurred in their return. But the language is more expanded and sublime than was necessary to express their return. It will also express appropriately a much more important and magnificent deliverance—that of the redeemed under the Messiah; and the return of the people of God to him, and the universal spread of the gospel; and therefore it may be said to be fulfilled in the coming of Jesus and the spread of the gospel. So, if there were any other magnificent and glorious events, still, in similar circumstances, and of like character, it might be said also that these prophecies were fulfilled in all of them. The language is so full and rich, and the promises are so grand, that they may appropriately express all these deliverances. This may be the sense in which the prophecy now under consideration may be said to have been fulfilled. 4th. Language is said to be fulfilled when, though it was used to express one event, it may be used also to express another. Thus a fable may be said to be fulfilled when an event occurs similar to the one concerning which it was first spoken. A parable has its fulfilment in all the cases to which it is applicable; and the same remark applies to a proverb, or to a declaration respecting human nature. The statement that “there is none that doeth good" (Ps. 14:3) was at first spoken of a particular race of wicked men. Yet it is applicable to others, and in this sense may be said to have been fulfilled. See Ro. 3:10. In this use of the word fulfilled, it means, not that the passage was at first intended to apply to this particular thing, but that the words aptly or appropriately express the thing spoken of, and may be applied to it. We may say the same of this which was said of another thing, and thus the words express both, or are fulfilled. The writers of the New Testament seem occasionally to have used the word in this sense.

23. Behold, a virgin shall be with child.

Matthew clearly understands this as applying literally to a virgin. Compare Lu. 1:34. It thus implies that the conception of Christ was miraculous, or that the body of the Messiah was created directly by the power of God, agreeably to the declaration in He. 10:5: "Wherefore, when he cometh into the world, he saith, Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body hast thou prepared me."

And they shall call his name Emmanuel. That is, his name shall be so called. See Notes on Is. 7:14. The word Immanuel is a Hebrew word, and means literally God with us.

Matthew doubtless understands it as denoting that the Messiah was really "God with us," or that the divine nature was united with the human.

He does not affirm that this was its meaning when used in reference to the child to whom it was first applied, but this is its signification as applicable to the Messiah. It was fitly expressive of his character; and in this sense it was fulfilled. When first used by Isaiah, it denoted simply that the birth of the child was a sign that God was with the Jews to deliver them. The Hebrews often incorporated the name of Jehovah, or God, into their proper names. Thus, Isaiah means "the salvation of Jehovah;" Eleazer, "help of God;" Eli, "my God," &c. But Matthew evidently intends more than was denoted by the simple use of such names. He had just given an account of the miraculous conception of Jesus; of his being begotten by the Holy Ghost. God was therefore his Father.

He was divine as well as human.

His appropriate name, therefore, was “God with us.”

And though the mere use of such a name would not prove that he had a divine nature, yet as Matthew uses it, and meant evidently to apply it, it does prove that Jesus was more than a man; that he was God as well as man. And it is this which gives glory to the plan of redemption. It is this which is the wonder of angels. It is this which makes the plan so vast & grand, so full of instruction & comfort to Christians. See Phi. 2:6–8.

It is this which sheds such peace and joy into the sinner’s heart; which gives him such security of salvation, and which renders the condescension of God in the work of redemption so great and his character so lovely.

*“Till God in human flesh I see,
My thoughts no comfort find,
The holy, just, and sacred Three
Are terror to my mind.*

*“But if IMMANUEL’S face appears,
My hope, my joy, begins.
His grace removes my slavish fears,*

His blood removes my sins.'

For a full examination of the passage, see my Notes on Is. 7:14.

24. Being raised from sleep. Having fully awoke.

Did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him. That is, he took Mary to wife. Probably this was done immediately, as he was now convinced of her innocence, and he would not by delay leave any ground of suspicion that he had not confidence in her.

25. Knew her not. The doctrine of the virginity of Mary before the birth of Jesus is a doctrine of the Scriptures, and is very important to be believed. But the Bible does not affirm that she had no children afterward. Indeed, all the accounts in the New Testament lead us to suppose that she had. See Notes on Mat. 13:55, 56. The language here evidently implies that she lived as the wife of Joseph after the birth of Jesus.

Her first-born son. Her eldest son, or he that by the law had the privilege of birthright. This does not of necessity imply that she had other children, though it seems probable. It was the name given to the son which was first born, whether there were others or not.

His name JESUS. This was given by divine appointment, ver. 21. It was conferred on him on the eighth day, at the time of his circumcision, Lu. 2:21.

Matthew Henry's Commentary:

Verses 18–25

The mystery of Christ's incarnation is to be adored, not pried into.

If we know not the way of the Spirit in the formation of common persons, nor how the bones are formed in the womb of any one that is with child (Eccles. 11:5), much less do we know how the blessed Jesus was formed in the womb of the blessed virgin.

When David admires how he himself was made in secret, and curiously wrought (Ps. 139:13–16), perhaps he speaks in the spirit of Christ's incarnation. Some circumstances attending the birth of Christ we find here which are not in Luke, though it is more largely recorded here. Here we have,

I. Mary's espousal to Joseph. Mary, the mother of our Lord, was espoused to Joseph, not completely married, but contracted; a purpose of marriage solemnly declared in words de futuro—that regarding the future, and a promise of it made if God permit. We read of a man who has betrothed a wife and has not taken her, Deu. 20:7. Christ was born of a virgin, but a betrothed virgin,

1. To put respect upon the marriage state, and to recommend it as honourable among all, against that doctrine of devils which forbids to marry, and places perfection in the single state. Who more highly favoured than Mary was in her espousals?
2. To save the credit of the blessed virgin, which otherwise would have been exposed. It was fit that her conception should be protected by a marriage, and so justified in the eye of the world. One of the ancients says, It was better it should be asked, Is not this the son of a carpenter? than, Is not this the son of a harlot?
3. That the blessed virgin might have one to be the guide of her youth, the companion of her solitude and travels, a partner in her cares, and a help meet for her. Some think that Joseph was now a widower, and that those who are called the brethren of Christ (ch. 13:55), were Joseph's children by a former wife. This is the conjecture of many of the ancients. Joseph was a just man, she a virtuous woman. Those who are believers should not be unequally yoked with unbelievers: but let those who are religious choose to marry with those who are so, as they expect the comfort of the relation, and God's blessing upon them in it. We may also learn, from this example, that it is good to enter into the married state with deliberation, and not hastily—to preface the nuptials with a contract. It is better to take time to consider before than to find time to repent after.

II. Her pregnancy of the promised seed; before they came together, she was found with child, which really was of the Holy Ghost. The marriage was deferred so long after the contract that she appeared to be with child before the time came for the solemnizing of the marriage, though she was contracted before she conceived. Probably, it was after her return from her cousin Elizabeth, with whom she continued three months (Lu. 1:56), that she was perceived by Joseph to be with child, and did not herself deny it. Note, Those in whom Christ is formed will show it: it will be found to be a work of God which he will own. Now we may well imagine, what a perplexity this might justly occasion to the blessed virgin. She herself knew the divine original of this conception; but how could she prove it? She would be dealt with as a harlot. Note, After great and high advancements, lest we should be puffed up with them, we must expect something or other to humble us, some reproach, as a thorn in the flesh, nay, as a sword in the bones. Never was any daughter of Eve so dignified as the Virgin Mary was, and yet in danger of falling under the imputation of one of the worse crimes; yet we do not find that she tormented herself about it; but, being conscious of her own innocence, she kept her mind calm and easy, and committed her cause to him that judgeth righteously. Note, those who take care to keep a good conscience may cheerfully trust God with the keeping of their good names, and have reason to hope that he will clear up, not only their integrity, but their honour, as the sun at noon day.

III. Joseph's perplexity, and his care what to do in this case. We may well imagine what a great trouble and disappointment it was to him to find one he had such an opinion of, and value for, come under the suspicion of such a heinous crime. Is this Mary? He began to think, "How may we be deceived in those we think best of! How may we be disappointed in what we expect most from!" He is loth to believe so ill a thing of one whom he believed to be so good a woman; and yet the matter, as it is too bad to be excused, is also too plain to be denied. What a struggle does this occasion in his breast between that jealousy which is the rage of man, and is cruel as the grave, on the one hand, and that affection which he has for Mary on the other!

Observe,

1. The extremity which he studied to avoid. He was not willing to make her a public example. He might have done so; for, by the law, a betrothed virgin, if she played the harlot, was to be stoned to death, Deu. 22:23, 24. But he was not willing to take the advantage of the law against her; if she be guilty, yet it is not known, nor shall it be known from him. How different was the spirit which Joseph displayed from that of Judah, who in a similar case hastily passed that severe sentence, Bring her forth and let her be burnt! Gen. 38:24. How good it is to think on things, as Joseph did here! Were there more of deliberation in our censures and judgments, there would be more of mercy and moderation in them. Bringing her to punishment is here called making her a public example; which shows what is the end to be aimed at in punishment—the giving of warning to others: it is in terrorem—that all about may hear and fear. Smite the scorner, and the simple will beware.

Some persons of a rigorous temper would blame Joseph for his clemency: but it is here spoken of to his praise; because he was a just man, therefore he was not willing to expose her.

He was a religious, good man; and therefore inclined to be merciful as God is, and to forgive as one that was forgiven. In the case of the betrothed damsel, if she were defiled in the field, the law charitably supposed that she cried out (Deu. 22:26), and she was not to be punished. Some charitable construction or other Joseph will put upon this matter; and herein he is a just man, tender of the good name of one who never before had done anything to blemish it. Note, It becomes us, in many cases, to be gentle towards those that come under suspicion of having offended, to hope the best concerning them, and make the best of that which at first appears bad, in hopes that it may prove better. Summum just summa injuria—The rigour of the law is (sometimes) the height of injustice. That court of conscience which moderates the rigour of the law we call a court of equity. Those who are found faulty were perhaps overtaken in the fault, and are therefore to be restored with the spirit of meekness; and threatening, even when just, must be moderated.

2. The expedient he found out for avoiding this extremity. He was minded to put her away privily, that is, to give a bill of divorce into her hand before two witnesses, and so to hush up the matter among themselves. Being a just man, that is, a strict observer of the law, he would not proceed to marry her, but resolved to put her away; and yet, in tenderness for her, determined to do it as privately as possible. Note, The necessary censures of those who have offended ought to be managed without noise.

The words of the wise are heard in quiet.

Christ himself shall not strive nor cry. Christian love and Christian prudence will hide a multitude of sins, and great ones, as far as may be done without having fellowship with them.

IV. Joseph's discharge from this perplexity by an express sent from heaven, v. 20, 21. While he thought on these things and knew not what to determine, God graciously directed him what to do, and made him easy. Note, Those who would have direction from God must think on things themselves, and consult with themselves.

It is the thoughtful, not the unthinking, whom God will guide.

When he was at a loss, and had carried the matter as far as he could in his own thoughts, then God came in with advice. Note, God's time to come in with instruction to his people is when they are nonplussed and at a stand.

God's comforts most delight the soul in the multitude of its perplexed thoughts.

The message was sent to Joseph by an angel of the Lord, probably the same angel that brought Mary the tidings of the conception—the angel Gabriel. Now the intercourse with heaven, by angels, with which the patriarchs had been dignified, but which had been long disused, begins to be revived; for, when the First-begotten is to be brought into the world, the angels are ordered to attend his motions. How far God may now, in an invisible way, make use of the ministration of angels, for extricating his people out of their straits, we cannot say; but this we are sure of, they are all ministering spirits for their good.

This angel appeared to Joseph in a dream when he was asleep, as God sometimes spoke unto the fathers. When we are most quiet and composed we are in the best frame to receive the notices of the divine will. The Spirit moves on the calm waters. This dream, no doubt, carried its own evidence along with it that it was of God, and not the production of a vain fancy. Now,

1. Joseph is here directed to proceed in his intended marriage. The angel calls him, Joseph, thou son of David; he puts him in mind of his relation to David, that he might be prepared to receive this surprising intelligence of his relation to the Messiah, who, every one knew, was to be a descendant from David. Sometimes, when great honours devolve upon those who have small estates, they care not for accepting them, but are willing to drop them; it was therefore requisite to put this poor carpenter in mind of his high birth: "Value thyself. Joseph, thou art that son of David through whom the line of the Messiah is to be drawn."

We may thus say to every true believer, "Fear not, thou son of Abraham, thou child of God; forget not the dignity of thy birth, thy new birth."

Fear not to take Mary for thy wife; so it may be read. Joseph, suspecting she was with child by whoredom, was afraid of taking her, lest he should bring upon himself either guilt or reproach. No, saith God, Fear not; the matter is not so. Perhaps Mary had told him that she was with child by the Holy Ghost, and he might have heard what

Elizabeth said to her (Lu. 1:43), when she called her the mother of her Lord; and, if so, he was afraid of presumption in marrying one so much above him. But, from whatever cause his fears arose, they were all silenced with this word, Fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife.

Note, It is a great mercy to be delivered from our fears, and to have our doubts resolved, so as to proceed in our affairs with satisfaction.

2. He is here informed concerning that holy thing with which his espoused wife was now pregnant. That which is conceived in her is of a divine original. He is so far from being in danger of sharing in an impurity by marrying her, that he will thereby share in the highest dignity he is capable of. Two things he is told,

(1.) That she had conceived by the power of the Holy Ghost; not by the power of nature. The Holy Spirit, who produced the world, now produced the Saviour of the world, and prepared him a body, as was promised him, when he said, Lo, I come, Heb. 10:5. Hence he is said to be made of a woman (Gal. 4:4), and yet to be that second Adam that is the Lord from heaven, 1 Co. 15:47. He is the Son of God, and yet so far partakes of the substance of his mother as to be called the fruit of her womb, Lu. 1:42. It was requisite that his conception should be otherwise than by ordinary generation, that so, so though he partook of the human nature, yet he might escape the corruption and pollution of it, and not be conceived and shapen in iniquity. Histories tell us of some who vainly pretended to have conceived by a divine power, as the mother of Alexander; but none ever really did so, except the mother of our Lord. His name in this, as in other things, is Wonderful. We do not read that the virgin Mary did herself proclaim the honour done to her; but she hid it in her heart, and therefore God sent an angel to attest it. Those who seek not their own glory shall have the honour that comes from God; it is reserved for the humble.

(2.) That she should bring forth the Saviour of the world (v. 21). She shall bring forth a Son; what he shall be is intimated,

[1.] In the name that should be given to her Son: Thou shalt call his name Jesus, a Saviour. Jesus is the same name with Joshua, the termination only being changed, for the sake of conforming it to the Greek. Joshua is called Jesus (Acts 7:45; Heb. 4:8), from the Seventy. There were two of that name under the Old Testament, who were both illustrious types of Christ, Joshua who was Israel's captain at their first settlement in Canaan, and Joshua who was their high priest at their second settlement after the captivity, Zec. 6:11, 12. Christ is our Joshua; both the Captain of our salvation, and the High Priest of our profession, and, in both, our Saviour—a Joshua who comes in the stead of Moses, and does that for us which the law could not do, in that it was weak. Joshua had been called Hosea, but Moses prefixed the first syllable of the name Jehovah, and so made it Jehoshua (Num. 13:16), to intimate that the Messiah, who was to bear that name, should be Jehovah; he is therefore able to save to the uttermost, neither is there salvation in any other.

[2.] In the reason of that name: For he shall save his people from their sins; not the nation of the Jews only (he came to his own, and they received him not), but all who were given him by the Father's choice, and all who had given themselves to him by their own. He is a king who protects his subjects, and, as the judges of Israel of old, works salvation for them. Note, those whom Christ saves he saves from their sins; from the guilt of sin by the merit of his death, from the dominion of sin by the Spirit of his grace. In saving them from sin, he saves them from wrath and the curse, and all misery here and hereafter.

Christ came to save his people, not in their sins, but from their sins; to purchase for them, not a liberty to sin, but a liberty from sins, to redeem them from all iniquity (Tit. 2:14); and so to redeem them from among men (Rev. 14:4) to himself, who is separate from sinners.

So that those who leave their sins, and give up themselves to Christ as his people, are interested in the Saviour, and the great salvation which he has wrought out, Rom. 11:26.

v. The fulfilling of the scripture in all this. This evangelist, writing among the Jews, more frequently observes this than any other of the evangelists. Here the Old Testament prophecies had their accomplishment in our Lord Jesus, by which it appears that this was he that should come, and we are to look for no other; for this was he to whom all the prophets bore witness. Now the scripture that was fulfilled in the birth of Christ was that promise of a sign which God gave to king Ahaz (Isa. 7:14), Behold a virgin shall conceive; where the prophet, encouraging the people of God to hope for the promised deliverance from Sennacherib's invasion, directs them to look forward to the Messiah, who was to come of the people of the Jews, and the house of David; whence it was easy to infer, that though that people and that house were afflicted, yet neither the one nor the other could be abandoned to ruin, so long as God had such an honour, such a blessing, in reserve for them.

The deliverances which God wrought for the Old-Testament church were types and figures of the great salvation by Christ; and, if God will do the greater, he will not fail to do the less.

The prophecy here quoted is justly ushered in with a Behold, which commands both attention and admiration; for we have here the mystery of godliness, which is, without controversy, great, that God was manifested in the flesh.

1. The sign given is that the Messiah shall be born of a virgin. A virgin shall conceive, and, by her, he shall be manifested in the flesh. The word Almah signifies a virgin in the strictest sense, such as Mary professes herself to be (Lu. 1:34), I know not a man; nor had it been any such wonderful sign as it was intended for, if it had been otherwise. It was intimated from the beginning that the Messiah should be born of a virgin, when it was said that he should be the seed of the woman; so the seed of the woman as not to be the seed of any man. Christ was born of a virgin not only because his birth was to be supernatural, and altogether extraordinary, but because it was to be spotless, and pure, and without any stain of sin. Christ would be born, not of an empress or queen, for he appeared not in outward pomp or splendour, but of a virgin, to teach us spiritual purity, to die to all the delights of sense, and so to keep ourselves unspotted from the world and the flesh that we may be presented chaste virgins to Christ.
2. The truth proved by this sign is, that he is the Son of God, and the Mediator between God and man: for they shall call his name Immanuel; that is, he shall be Immanuel; and when it is said, He shall be called, it is meant, he shall be, the Lord our righteousness. Immanuel signifies God with us; a mysterious name, but very precious; God incarnate among us, and so God reconcilable to us, at peace with us, and taking us into covenant and communion with himself. The people of the Jews had God with them, in types and shadows, dwelling between the cherubim; but never so as when the Word was made flesh—that was the blessed Shechinah. What a happy step is hereby taken toward the settling of a peace and correspondence between God and man, that the two natures are thus brought together in the person of the Mediator! by this he became an unexceptionable referee, a days-man, fit to lay his hand upon them both, since he partakes of the nature of both.

Behold, in this, the deepest mystery, and the richest mercy, that ever was.

By the light of nature, we see God as a God above us; by the light of the law, we see him as a God against us; but by the light of the gospel, we see him as Immanuel, God with us, in our own nature, and (which is more) in our interest. Herein the Redeemer commended his love.

With Christ's name, Immanuel, we may compare the name given to the gospel church (Eze. 48:35). Jehovah Shammah—The Lord is there; the Lord of hosts is with us.

Nor is it improper to say that the prophecy which foretold that he should be called Immanuel was fulfilled, in the design and intention of it, when he was called Jesus; for if he had not been Immanuel—God with us, he could not have been Jesus—a Saviour; and herein consists the salvation he wrought out, in the bringing of God and man together; this was what he designed, to bring God to be with us, which is our great happiness, and to bring us to be with God, which is our great duty.

VI. Joseph's obedience to the divine precept (v. 24). Being raised from sleep by the impression which the dream made upon him, he did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him, though it was contrary to his former sentiments and intentions; he took unto him his wife; he did it speedily, without delay, and cheerfully, without dispute; he was not disobedient to the heavenly vision.

Extraordinary direction like this we are not now to expect; but God has still ways of making known his mind in doubtful cases, by hints of providence, debates of conscience, and advice of faithful friends; by each of these, applying the general rules of the written word, we should, therefore, in all the steps of our life, particularly the great turns of it, such as this of Joseph's, take direction from God, and we shall find it safe and comfortable to do as he bids us.

VII. The accomplishment of the divine promise (v. 25).

She brought forth her first-born son.

The circumstances of it are more largely related, Lu. 2:1, etc. Note, That which is conceived of the Holy Ghost never proves abortive, but will certainly be brought forth in its season. What is of the will of the flesh, and of the will of man, often miscarries; but, if Christ be formed in the soul, God himself has begun the good work which he will perform; what is conceived in grace will no doubt be brought forth in glory.

It is here further observed,

1. That Joseph, though he solemnized the marriage with Mary, his espoused wife, kept at a distance from her while she was with child of this Holy thing; he knew her not till she had brought him forth. Much has been said concerning the perpetual virginity of Mary: Jerome was very angry with Helvidius for denying it. It is certain that it cannot be proved from scripture. Dr. Whitby inclines to think that when it is said, Joseph knew her not till she had brought forth her first-born, it is intimated that, afterwards, the reason ceasing, he lived with her, according to the law, Ex. 21:10.

2. That Christ was the first-born; and so he might be called though his mother had not any other children after him, according to the language of scripture. Nor is it without a mystery that Christ is called her first-born, for he is the first-born of every creature, that is, the Heir of all things; and he is the first-born among many brethren, that in all things he may have the pre-eminence.

3. That Joseph called his name Jesus, according to the direction given him. God having appointed him to be the Saviour, which was intimated in his giving him the name Jesus, we must accept of him to be our Saviour, and, in concurrence with that appointment, we must call him Jesus, our Saviour.⁴

⁴ Matthew Henry, Matthew Henry's Commentary on the Whole Bible: Complete and Unabridged in One Volume (Peabody: Hendrickson, 1994), 1612–1614.

◀ 1510. eimi ▶

Strong's Concordance

eimi: I exist, I am

Original Word: εἰμί

Part of Speech: Verb

Transliteration: eimi

Phonetic Spelling: (i-mee')

Definition: I exist, I am

Usage: I am, exist.

HELPS Word-studies

1510 eimí (the basic Greek verb which expresses being, i.e. "to be") – am, is. 1510 (eimí), and its counterparts, (properly) convey "straight-forward" being (existence, i.e. without explicit limits).

1510 /eimí ("is, am") – in the present tense, indicative mood – can be time-inclusive ("omnitemporal," like the Hebrew imperfect tense). Only the context indicates whether the present tense also has "timeless" implications. For example, 1510 (eimí) is aptly used in Christ's great "I am" (ego eimi . . .) that also include His eternality (self-existent life) as our life, bread, light," etc. See Jn 7:34, 8:58, etc.

Example: Jn 14:6: "I am (1510 /eimí) the way, the truth and the life." Here 1510 (eimí) naturally accords with the fact Christ is eternal – meaning "I am (was, will be)." The "I am formula (Gk egō eimi)" harks back to God's only name, "Yahweh" (OT/3068, "the lord") – meaning "He who always was, is, and will be." Compare Jn 8:58 with Ex 3:14. See also Rev 4:8 and 2962 /kýrios ("Lord").

NAS Exhaustive Concordance

Word Origin

a prol. form of a prim. and defective verb

Definition

I exist, I am

NASB Translation

accompanied* (1), accompany* (2), am (138), amount (1), amounts (1), appear* (1), asserted*

(1), become* (5), been (45), been* (1), being (26), belong (3), belonged* (1), belonging (1), belonging* (1), belongs (4), bring* (1), came (1), come (5), consist (1), crave* (1), depends* (1), do (1), done* (1), exist (3), existed (4), existed* (1), falls (1), found (1), had (8), happen (4), have (2), have come (1), lived (1), mean (1), mean* (2), means (7), meant (2), originate (1), owns (1), remain (3), remained (1), rest (1), sided (1), stayed (2), themselves (1), there (6), turn (1).

ANSWERS IN GENESIS:

God, the Holy Spirit

by Dr. Mark Bird

Featured in Answers in Depth

PDF DOWNLOAD

Share

Abstract

The Holy Spirit is not an impersonal force. The Bible teaches that He is active in our lives, a distinct person, and fully God.

Today is May the 4th, a day on which many people greet each other by saying “May the fourth be with you” as a clever play on words to the popular movie quote, “May the force be with you,” from Disney’s Star Wars movies. But unlike the impersonal force represented in Star Wars, the Holy Spirit is God Himself, who lives inside of and educates, strengthens, enlightens, and encourages Christians.

My brother Dave was the area supervisor of several gas stations. Every day he visited each of his stores. One morning he left early and started for the farthest store on his route. Dave was feeling depressed, and with no one in the car with him, he had few distractions from his feelings. The emptiness of his life troubled him. The road trip was getting miserable... Then suddenly, Dave said he heard a voice, an audible voice! Someone in that car said, “Jesus loves you!” In shock, my brother turned to his right. He saw no one. Who was that? Was it God? “Forgive me!” Dave cried out. Then something happened in his heart. God gave him the assurance right then that he was a new creature in Christ.

Discovering that he no longer wanted the cigarettes in his front pocket, Dave threw them onto the car floor to be thrown away when he reached his destination. When he got home that night, he poured out the alcohol from the bar in his basement. He gathered his family around the dining room table and told them that things would be different in their home. And they were. That was over twenty years ago, and my brother is still a strong Christian.

Now my question is: who spoke to my brother going down the highway? Was it an angel? Was it Jesus? Was it Dave’s imagination? I believe the voice Dave heard that morning was the voice of the Holy Spirit. Why does He speak? He speaks (though usually not audibly) because He is a Person, because He is God, and because His work is to bring each of us into a delightful, personal relationship with Jesus.

The Holy Spirit Is a Person

The Holy Spirit can speak (Acts 8:29, 11:12, 13:2)—though some people don’t think the Holy Spirit can speak because they think of the Holy Spirit as an impersonal force, or simply a presence. For instance, a Jehovah’s Witness might say something like this:

“The holy spirit is not a person and it is not a part of a Trinity. The holy spirit is God’s active force that he uses to accomplish his will. . . . To a certain extent, it can be likened to electricity.”1

The Jehovah’s Witness sees the Holy Spirit as an impersonal force. Maybe you, too, have trouble thinking of the Holy Spirit as a real person. After all, He doesn’t have a physical body like Jesus does. But He is a person who has eternally lived in an intimate relationship with God the Father and God the Son. And now He invites each of us to participate in that dynamic relationship of love.

Biblical Proof That the Holy Spirit Is a Person

A real person has the attributes of personality, which include mind, will, and emotions. Does the Holy Spirit have a will? He distributes spiritual gifts to Christians “as He wills.”2 Does the Holy Spirit have a mind? He “searches . . . the deep things of God” and knows them.3 Does the Holy Spirit have emotions? We are told to “grieve not the Holy Spirit.”4 If the Holy Spirit can be grieved, then He has emotions. Because the Holy Spirit has a mind, a will, and emotions, we know that He is a Person.5

A real person also has the capacity to have relationships with others. That’s the primary reason we have mind, will, and emotions. According to Philippians 2:1, the Spirit is able to have fellowship with us.6 According to 2 Corinthians 13:14, the Holy Spirit can have communion with us.7 One who is able to commune and to have fellowship is capable of personal relationships. Therefore, the Holy Spirit is a person.

What This Means for You

The Holy Spirit is a real Person, not just a force or a presence or a power.

Understand that the Holy Spirit is a real Person, not just a force or a presence or a power. You must recognize Him as a Person. He can speak.8 He is praying for you, just as Christ is praying for you.9 He will teach you what you need to know. He will guide you in your decisions. He tells you that you are a child of God.10 He will personally clean up the “rooms” of your innermost being when you let Him. You can submit to His voice or reject His voice. If you disobey His voice, He will be grieved. Respecting the Holy Spirit as a person is necessary for your relationship with Him.

Listening to the Spirit

Take time to listen for the Spirit. Don’t wait for an audible voice, but listen as He speaks through the Word. Learn to understand what many call “the prompts” and “the checks” of the Spirit. You can experience these because the Spirit, as a divine Person, has taken a personal interest in you. Have you ever thanked Him for that?

The Holy Spirit Is God

The Holy Spirit is the all-knowing, all-seeing, everywhere-present God. Acts 5:3–4 teaches us that the Holy Spirit is God. Remember the story of Ananias and Sapphira? Before Ananias was struck dead, Peter told him, “Why has Satan filled your heart to lie to the Holy Spirit? . . . You have not lied to men; but to God.” From this event we can see that lying to the Holy Spirit is the same as lying to God; therefore, the Holy Spirit is God.

There is more Scriptural evidence that the Holy Spirit is God. We see from the Bible that:

- The words of God are the words the Holy Spirit inspired.11
- We are the temple of God because the Spirit indwells us.12
- The one born of the Spirit is said to be born of God.13

The Holy Spirit is God Himself, the third Person of the divine Trinity. Why is it so important to believe in the deity and personhood of the Holy Spirit? It is crucial because you cannot give Him the honor and respect that He deserves if you don't consider Him a divine Person. In fact, I find it doubtful that someone can be saved while he denies the personhood and deity of the One who tries to draw him to salvation.14

The Holy Spirit Is Distinct from the Father and the Son

One person I talked to declared, "The Holy Spirit is Jesus." Some people think that the Holy Spirit is actually the same Person as the Father and the Son. But the Scriptures clearly teach a distinction between the Persons of the Trinity. For example, again and again in John 14–16, Jesus referred to a Helper ("Comforter" in the KJV) that He would send when He went back to the Father.15 This Helper would guide the disciples and teach them.16 If Jesus and the Holy Spirit were one and the same Person, Jesus's reference to the Holy Spirit as another Helper would not make sense. Jesus must have been referring to another Person distinct from Himself.

The Holy Spirit has lived in a loving relationship with the Father and Son from all eternity.

Look at the account of Jesus's baptism.17 Here the Son is baptized; a voice from Heaven says, "This is my beloved Son"; and the Holy Spirit, like a dove, rests upon Jesus. All of this occurs simultaneously. All three of the members of the Trinity are seen here at the same time, obviously distinct from one another.

As a distinct person, the Holy Spirit has lived in a loving relationship with the Father and Son from all eternity. God created us to participate in that love relationship. God wants us to enjoy fellowship with Him,18 as each member of the Trinity has enjoyed fellowship with each other from before the beginning of time.19

The Spirit Is at Work in the World and in Your Heart Today

The Holy Spirit speaks to us because He is the third Person of the Trinity, sent by the Father and the Son to work in our hearts.20 The Holy Spirit was active in creation.21 He inspired the Holy Scriptures.22 So, what does He do today? He convicts the world of sin.23 He regenerates the repentant believer24 and gives assurance to those of us who are saved.25 He sanctifies us.26 He fills us with His presence.27 He gives us power to live holy lives28 and to be witnesses for God.29 He helps us understand the Bible.30 He enables us to exhibit the “fruit of the Spirit.”31 He gives gifts to each member of the church so that each of us in the “body” can contribute as the Spirit desires.32 He “seals” us for the day of redemption, guaranteeing our inheritance in heaven.33

Personal Application

Are you allowing God the Holy Spirit to work in your life? Are you letting Him sanctify you? Has He given you power to be an effective witness? Are you manifesting the “fruit of the Spirit?” Have you discovered the spiritual gifts that the Spirit has given you? Are you letting Him use you in the body of Christ?

The Holy Spirit wants to take up personal residence inside us. We can have a joyful life filled with the presence of the Spirit. We should listen carefully for the Spirit, for He loves to encourage and empower those who are willing to obey His voice as they study Scripture.

What are the seven I AM statements in the Gospel of John?

In the Gospel of John, Jesus makes seven statements beginning with the words I am. Each of these “I am” proclamations furthers our understanding of Jesus’ ministry in the world. They also link Jesus to the Old Testament revelation of God.

In the Old Testament, God revealed His name to Moses: “I AM WHO I AM. This is what you are to say to the Israelites: ‘I AM has sent me to you’” (Exodus 3:14). Thus, in Judaism, “I AM” is unquestionably understood as a name for God. Whenever Jesus made an “I am” statement in which He claimed attributes of deity, He was identifying Himself as God.

Here are the seven metaphorical “I am” statements found in John’s gospel:

“I am the bread of life” (John 6:35, 41, 48, 51). In this chapter, Jesus establishes a pattern that continues through John’s gospel—Jesus makes a statement about who He is, and He backs it up with something He does. In this case, Jesus states that He is the bread of life just after He had fed the 5,000 in the wilderness. At the same time, He contrasts what He can do with what Moses had done for their ancestors: “Our ancestors ate the manna in the wilderness, yet they died. But here is the bread that comes down from heaven, which anyone may eat and not die” (verses 49–50).

“I am the light of the world” (John 8:12; 9:5). This second of Jesus’ “I am” statements in John’s gospel comes right before He heals a man born blind. Jesus not only says He is the light; He proves it. Jesus’ words and actions echo Genesis 1:3, “And God said, ‘Let there be light,’ and there was light.”

“I am the door” (John 10:7 and 9, ESV). This “I am” statement stresses that no one can enter the kingdom of heaven by any other means than Christ Himself. Jesus’ words in this passage are couched in the imagery of a sheepfold. He is the one and only way to enter the fold. “Truly, truly, I say to you, he who does not enter the sheepfold by the door but climbs in by another way, that man is a thief and a robber” (verse 1, ESV).

"I am the good shepherd" (John 10:11, 14). With this "I am" statement, Jesus portrays His great love and care. He is the One who willingly protects His flock even to the point of death (verses 11 and 15). When Jesus called Himself the good shepherd, He unmistakably took for Himself one of God's titles in the Old Testament: "The Lord is my shepherd" (Psalm 23:1).

"I am the resurrection and the life" (John 11:25). Jesus made this "I am" statement immediately before raising Lazarus from the dead. Again, we see that Jesus' teaching was not just empty talk; when He made a claim, He substantiated it with action. He holds "the keys of death and the grave" (Revelation 1:18, NLT). In raising Lazarus from the dead, Jesus showed how He can fulfill Yahweh's promise to ancient Israel: "[God's] dead shall live; their bodies shall rise" (Isaiah 26:19, ESV). Apart from Jesus, there is neither resurrection nor eternal life.

"I am the way and the truth and the life" (John 14:6). This powerful "I am" statement of Christ's is packed with meaning. Jesus is not merely one way among many ways to God; He is the only way. Scripture said that "The very essence of [God's] words is truth" (Psalm 119:160, NLT), and here is Jesus proclaiming that He is the truth—confirming His identity as the Word of God (see John 1:1, 14). And Jesus alone is the source of life; He is the Creator and Sustainer of all life and the Giver of eternal life.

"I am the true vine" (John 15:1, 5). The final metaphorical "I am" statement in the Gospel of John emphasizes the sustaining power of Christ. We are the branches, and He is the vine. Just as a branch cannot bear fruit unless it is joined in vital union with the vine, only those who are joined to Christ and receive their power from Him produce fruit in the Christian life.

There are two more "I am" statements of Jesus in the Gospel of John. These are not metaphors; rather, they are declarations of God's name, as applied by Jesus to Himself. The first instance comes as Jesus responds to a complaint by the Pharisees. "I tell you the truth," Jesus says, "before Abraham was born, I am!" (John 8:58). The verbs Jesus uses are in stark contrast with each other: Abraham was, but I am. There is no doubt that the Jews understood Jesus' claim to be the eternal God incarnate, because they took up stones to kill Him (verse 59).

The second instance of Jesus applying to Himself the name I AM comes in the Garden of Gethsemane. When the mob came to arrest Jesus, He asked them whom they sought.

They said, "Jesus of Nazareth," and Jesus replied, "I am he" (John 18:4–5). Then something strange happened: "When Jesus said, 'I am he,' they drew back and fell to the ground" (verse 6). Perhaps explaining the mob's reaction is the fact that the word he has been provided by our English translators. Jesus simply said, "I am." Applying God's covenant name to Himself, Jesus demonstrated His power over His foes and showed that His surrender to them was entirely voluntary (see John 10:17–18; 19:11).